Pre-health and Field Biology Degrees

The Biology and Chemistry programs at LCSC offer competitive degrees for students interested in graduate programs in medicine (physician, veterinary, dentistry, podiatry, optometry, physician assistant), medical therapies (physical therapy, occupational therapy), pharmacy, and public health. Other majors are available across campus for these career interests, as well. The Biology program also offers a successful degree in Field Biology for students interested in working for federal, state, and non-governmental organizations. For more information on Biology degrees or health professions, please contact Dr. Jacob Hornby at jmhornby@lcsc.edu.
