ASLCSC planning legacy project
Page 5

Need a good book to curl up with this winter?
Page 6

Disappointing start for Women’s Basketball
Page 11

Opinion: stop complaining about the election
Page 2

A Student Owned and Operated Newspaper

Opinion: stop complaining about the election
Page 2

Disappointing start for Women’s Basketball
Page 11

ASLCSC planning legacy project
Page 5

Need a good book to curl up with this winter?
Page 6

1. Please select: *
   - LCSC Faculty
   - LCSC Staff
   - LCSC Student

2. Goal 1 - Strengthen and expand collaborative relationships and partnerships.

   LCSC seeks student input, page 3

4. Goal 3 - Optimize student enrollment and promote student success.

5. Goal 4 - Leverage resources to maximize institutional strength and efficiency.

6. Additional comments:

The above comment form can be filled out by students and faculty at www.lcsc.edu/strategic-planning/.
From the Editor
I'm no James Bond

Watching movies affects my attitude, especially when it's James Bond.

After watching "Skyfall" this weekend I keep feeling much cooler than I actually am. Not that I'm not cool, it's just that a snazzy jazz theme doesn't come on every time I turn a corner.

I keep on thinking my car is also better too. I drive a twice-wrecked, Nissan Altima with a unopenable passenger side door. I am not driving a car with an ejector seat, rocket boosters and headlight guns not matter how much I wish I was.

I also introduce myself by last name first. It doesn't work. It just confuses people.

I do however, feel like a spy when I come into the Pathfinder office and I have to use the button on my key card to get it. I open the door and say, "007 reporting for duty" but there's never anyone in the office.

Then I remind myself that I'm not part of MI6. I'm an American, from Idaho going to LCSC, and I have papers to write and a newspaper to put together. That's my mission. The least I can do is have that martini, shaken not stirred . . . if only I was old enough to drink that is.

Kaylee Brewster

So thankful for Thanksgiving break

I am so thankful this is our final week before Thanksgiving break. This upcoming week off is much needed.

What I am most excited about is spending a whole week at my grandparent's house. Their house is so relaxing, probably because we just watch TV all day. I cannot wait for that. It will be so nice to just relax and not think about school.

I called my grandma to tell her I would be spending the week at her house, and she informed that she just bought a bunch of good movies we can watch while I'm there.

I am so thankful for all I've been blessed with, and what a blessing it will be to spend a week with my grandparents, family, and friends.

So, I wish you all safe travels over your break and a very Happy Thanksgiving.

Aaron Waits

The Pathfinder Staff

Kaylee Brewster.................................................................................Editor
Aaron Waits.....................................................................................Assistant Editor
Lindsey Keats....................................................................................Staff Writer
Alex Ready........................................................................................Staff Writer
Kelly Rae Meyer..............................................................................Staff Writer
Kaleena Chamberlin........................................................................Staff Writer
Sandra Kelly........................................................................................Staff Writer
Mel Syverson......................................................................................Staff Writer
Sarah Frederiksen............................................................................Staff Writer
Ariel Morrow-Keeney.......................................................................Staff Writer
Laurel Smith.......................................................................................Staff Writer
Ryan Grether.....................................................................................Business Manager
Brad Gary..........................................................................................Adviser

The Pathfinder policies

The Pathfinder is the official student publication of Lewis-Clark State College, and operates under authority granted by the LCSC Communications Board. Responsibilities for establishing news and advertising policies and deciding issues related to content rest solely on the student staff. The views expressed in commentaries and letters are those of the individual authors, and not necessarily the views of The Pathfinder staff.

The Pathfinder's office is located on the LCSC campus in room 201 of the Student Union Building. All members of the campus community are invited to visit and share comments and ideas. If you would like to make an appointment to meet with the editor or any staff member, please call 792-2569 or email thepathfinder@lcmail.lcsc.edu.

Staff meetings are held at 6 p.m. every Tuesday in SUB room 201. Students interested in writing or layout, or anyone on campus who is just plain curious about what goes on at The Pathfinder may attend. The Pathfinder's staff may be contacted at thepathfinder@lcmail.lcsc.edu with the staff member's name in the subject line.

Deadlines for The Pathfinder are as follows:

- Arts — 5 p.m. Monday (for Wednesday release, unless by prior arrangement)
- Letters to the editor — 5 p.m. Monday
- Press releases and public service announcements — 5 p.m. Monday
- Articles, columns, opinion, profiles, stories — Saturday at midnight
- Sports stories and reviews — Saturday at midnight
- Submissions via email attachment are preferred.

Letters to the editor, press releases and public service announcements are run on a first come, first served basis as space permits. Items relevant to the campus community are given preference.
Students voice concerns at roundtable meeting

By Lindsey Keatts of The Pathfinder

Students were given a chance to speak their mind about proposed changes to LCSC Thursday.

The third of five meetings of the strategic planning committee enacted by President Anthony Fernandez met Thursday in Sacajawea Hall. In the first two sections of the meetings, which were designed for the purpose of coming up with goals to further advance student experience at LCSC, four general goals were formed.

Goal number one is to sustain and enhance excellence in teaching and learning. This goal included things like assessing programs offered to see if they are still relevant to today’s society/job market, improve online courses and increasing student/teacher interactions both in and out of the class.

When students were given the chance to speak concerns or ideas, there was a lot of feedback. Students overwhelmingly had concerns about the online classes, from not feeling like the discussion based classes were effective to them and revision should be considered, to feeling like professors don’t know how to use the technology and should undergo further training.

The second goal involved optimizing enrollment and promoting student success. It focused mostly on advising and giving advisors more tools to help their students. It also focused on targeting certain types of students and making sure advisors were equipped to deal with their unique situations.

Many students asked the administration why their advisors didn’t already have some of the tools and information they needed. The various members of the administration who were present at the meeting said that advisors did, in fact, have most of these tools already and that the main issue was training them on how to use them and publicizing the various things that advisors can help students with.

The third goal presented was to strengthen partnerships between the community and the school. This included increasing internship possibilities, career placement, alumni involvement and increasing research opportunities.

Several of the students who were present expressed a desire to have more internship information readily available to them. They also recommended advertising research services to local businesses looking for people to do statistical research as a way for students to get real world job experience.

The fourth goal was about leveraging resources. Basically, that meant getting more money from donors and allocating funds to the most important areas of the school.

Students did not have as much to say about this goal, but several concerned students voiced opinions about the school focusing mainly on nursing and medical type degrees. The students didn’t want the school to focus completely on the sciences and lose focus on humanities, business and other degree programs with lesser student enrollment.

It was also suggested that there be alumni nights on campus, for the alumni to come and meet some of the current students.

The ideas and input of the students on these topics will be considered further and discussed at the next two meetings, the dates of which are still to be determined. Students who were unable to attend the meeting, but would like to offer a comment or opinion can do so at www.lcsc.edu/strategic-planning before Thursday.
Workers can dig it

Construction crew digs outside the Fine Arts Building, Monday.

Better grades from better vision?

80% of what we learn is presented visually so get the most from your studies.

Student Special:

$76
FREE!

For a full, routine eye exam and a free contact lens evaluation to any LCSC student.

Lenses with the purchase of a new frame.*
Includes all Ray Ban products, too!

739 Bryden Ave., Suite
Lewiston, ID 83501
(208) 743-5830
www.myalpinevision.com

Call, stop in, or go online to schedule your appointment today!

Outreach Centers

Grangeville
Carla Nuxoll Wilkins, Coordinator
208-983-2164
crwilkins@lcsc.edu
www.lcsc.edu/cp/gville
Monday, Wednesday, Friday
10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Tuesday and Thursday
10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Lapwai
Kay Kidder, Coordinator
(208) 843-7316
www.lcsc.edu/cp/lapwai
kayk@nezperce.org
Monday - Thursday
8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.
Friday
8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Orofino
Amber Hanes-Miller, Coordinator
(208) 476-5731
adhanes-miller@lcsc.edu
www.lcsc.edu/cp/orofino
Monday, Wednesday
8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Tuesday, Thursday
8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Friday
8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Distance Learning

Monday - Friday
7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Saturday
9 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Saturday 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Sam Glenn Complex Rm. 212

Library

Monday - Thursday
8 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Saturday 12 p.m. to 5 p.m.
Sunday 2 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Math Lab

Monday - Thursday
8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.
and
Monday - Wednesday
7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Meriwether Lewis Hall, Room 320
2-3 tutors are on staff to assist students.

Student Health

Monday - Friday
8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.
Sam Glenn Complex, Room 205
(208) 792-2251

Writing Center

Spaulding Hall Room 115
Monday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Tuesday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Wednesday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Thursday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Friday 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.
(208) 792-2433

Security

Meriwether Lewis Hall, Room 110
(208) 792-2929
Senate Summary

By Lindsey Keatts
of The Pathfinder

The big issue being discussed at last week's ASLCSC meeting was their legacy project.

It had previously been decided that this year ASLCSC would sponsor the replacement of the "Welcome to Lewiston, Home of the Warriors" sign on Highway 95. Most of the student representatives were all for taking on this project, but an estimate of nearly $5,200 had Senator Tyler Jackson questioning if it was the best use of the money.

He proposed several ideas to reduce costs including having on campus groups such as the graphic design club and the welding department contributing their abilities instead of hiring outside companies. The other senators agreed that this was potentially a good idea, but ultimately voted to approve a maximum budget of $5,200 to go to their legacy project in the form of the sign. The sign will be gifted to the college upon completion.

Other important issues discussed include the following:

• A transfer of $1,000 to the kid's college summer program for the 10 students sponsored by ASLCSC during last summer's program.
• Coeur d'Alene campus' ASLCSC representatives made their annual trip to the Lewiston campus.

What’s happening?

Staff Report

• The Latter-Day Saints Student Association is having a presentation called “Mormon's Next Door.”
  The Presentation will be at 7 p.m. today at Sacajawea Hall room 112.
  The entire campus is invited to attend the presentation by Professor David Wiseman.
• LCSC will present a concert today.
  The concert will be at 7 p.m. today at Silverthorne Theater.
  The concert is free and open to the public.
  A variety of chorales will be performed by the choir directed by Joel Pals.
• Effusio Dance is having auditions for new members.
  Auditions are at 6 p.m. Thursday in the LCSC New Music Building located at the corner of 11th Avenue and Seventh Street.
  Effusio Dance is a contemporary dance company that performs in Lewiston, Clarkston and the Moscow-Pullman area. They also offer free classes.
• The LCSC Jazz Band is performing during Thanksgiving break.
  The concert will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Lewiston High School auditorium.
  The concert is free and open to the public. The LCSC Jazz band is directed by Bill Perconti.
Movie Review

Bond is back in “Skyfall”

James Bond (Daniel Craig) fights a bad guy for the device containing the identities of undercover agents.

By Kaylee Brewster of The Pathfinder

Here’s a man who needs no introduction. We all know his name, it’s Bond. James Bond.

The best agent on her majesty’s secret service, 007, (Daniel Craig) is back in action on the big screen. And the action never lets up.

The screen is blank with a short title, two seconds later we are thrown into the action. From then on, it’s nonstop, car chases, gun fights, tracking, chasing through crowds, and trying to figure out what is happening and how to stop it.

A device, for your eyes only, that lists all the undercover agents is stolen, and Bond is sent to retrieve it. Unfortunately, Bond is shot and killed when he tries to get the hardware back.

However, Bond may end up paying the ultimate price. After all, you only live twice and his life in the secret service has taken its toll. Could this be the end of Bond or will he live to die another day?

Considering the Bond franchise is 50 years old and still making millions of dollars (or pounds) I doubt it’s going away anytime soon. But there are other lives at stake here. That’s what makes “Skyfall” different from other Bond films. There is something bigger at risk and it’s something that will cost Bond something.

The code red situation is brought on by the newest Bond villain, Silva (Javier Bardem). As much as Bond would like to just shoot the living daylights out of Silva, he has to catch him first. Turns out that Silva has an extremely elaborate plot to get what he wants and lucky for the audience we get to go through the twists and turns of the conflict.

Bardem is now President of the worst villain haircut club, (thanks to “Skyfall” and “No Country for Old Men”) however, that position also comes with the benefits of being one of the best Bond villains. Silva is a cutthroat, live and let die type. He’s smart and unrelenting the perfect balance to Bond, which is why he’s so dangerous. Bardem plays this suave baddie with scary perfection and the result is haunting believability in the character.

This is also Bond’s hardest mission as well. He still has a license to kill, but he can’t shoot straight. He knows what he’s at stake but he’s not sure if he’s up to the task. He also knows that M is counting on him to save the day. Craig gets to experiment with Bond’s emotions this time around and he makes Bond feel like a real person, instead of just a spy. He becomes more connected to the audience and we become more interested in his fate.

See Skyfall, page 8

Book Review

Sisters and Shakespeare in “The Weird Sisters”

By Kelly-Rae Meyer of The Pathfinder

As an English major, reading books for fun is kind of rare – unless it’s during the summer or a long break.

This semester, however, I didn’t want to give that up, so I continued to attempt to read one book, and I finally finished it this past weekend.

“The Weird Sisters” by Eleanor Brown is one of the best contemporary books I’ve read in a long time. The novel takes place in a tiny town called Barnwell that only sees action during the school season. The Andreas sisters are the main focus of the novel. They are each named after Shakespeare women: Rosalind, Bianca and Cordelia. The sisters are all very different, of course, with Rose being a homebody and feeling she needs to be responsible all the time; Bean (Bianca’s nickname) is a high-class female living in New York, and she thrives on male attention; and then there’s Cordy – she is a transient, moving from place to place without any thought of where she’ll go next.

What I love about this book is the characters. If you know me, then you know that I am way more interested in reading about characters than the plot of any novel. Brown has this way of not only making her characters real, but also developing them into people who can change. The sisters all go through changes in “The Weird Sisters.” Rose struggles with finally leaving her parents, worrying about what her family will do without her; Bianca is faced with a lot of tough decisions, but most of all really looking at her morals and trying to figure out where they are and if she likes the person she’s become.

See Sisters page 8
Food for Thought

Tuna noodle casserole

By Alex Ready
of The Pathfinder

Some people might not believe this, but I have never, ever, had the family classic tuna noodle casserole. I know it might seem un-American, but it's true. So I finally got the gumption to actually put this classic recipe to the test.

Here's what you do:
• Heat the oven to 400° F. Stir the soup, milk, pimientos, if desired, peas, tuna, and noodles in a 2-quart casserole. Stir in the bread crumbs and butter in a small bowl.
• Bake the tuna mixture for 30 minutes or until hot and bubbling. Stir the tuna mixture. Sprinkle with the bread crumb mixture.
• Bake for 5 minutes or until the bread crumb mixture is golden brown.

I don't know how much easier this could be. I planned on spending more time on this dish and while it was baking I was able to actually do dishes. This casserole has already gained bonus points for its ability to allow me to not stand and watch the pot the whole time.

When I took the dish out of the oven, it looked just like the picture said that it would! I really wanted to dig in, so I did.

The noodles were cooked well and the flavor very mild, bland even. The mixture also seemed a little bit too dry for my taste. I'm not sure what I could have done to fix this problem, but it needed something. I think that this recipe isn't one that I would be willing to try again without getting some expert opinions on how to make it better. My casserole I have to eat for the next week gave me the constant reminder of my search for the perfect tuna noodle casserole.

Do you have a family recipe that could out do this? Send us the recipe, and I will try it.

This recipe was found at: www.campbellskitchen.com.

Ingredients:

• 2 cans (10 ¾ ounces each) Campbell’s® Condensed Cream of Mushroom Soup (Regular or 98% Fat Free) (Being the cheap-skate that I am, I didn't get this exact brand. I went for the cheaper one instead).
• ½ cup milk
• ¼ cup chopped pimientos (I find the whole idea of eating a pimiento disgusting, so I choose not to do this).
• 2 cups Birds Eye® Sweet Garden Peas (Yeah...didn't get this brand either. In this case, there was a whole dollar difference in price).
• 2 cans (12 ounces each) tuna, drained
• ½ of a 120-ounce package medium egg noodles (about 4 cups), cooked and drained (At this point, I learned that it’s better to read the recipe all the way through before you start getting everything started. I ended up having a lot of stuff ready to go before I realized I needed the egg noodles to be cooked).
• 2 tablespoons plain, dry bread crumbs
• 1 tablespoon butter, melted (I didn’t measure this exactly. In my opinion, the more butter the better).
“Skyfall” is still a James Bond movie. It still has the same theme, but the score (Thomas Newman) also adds to the intensity. It has the same shaken, not stirred martini and an appearance by a former Bond car. Also, the credits at the beginning and the end are very much in the bond style of not just having a list of words but some creativity relating to the film. Adele’s song “Skyfall” during the beginning credits adds to the dark mood of the movie.

Bond is back and he’s better than ever and the villain is badder than ever. Bond’s smart, exciting and yes, still sexy. If “Skyfall” proves anything it’s that the world is not enough for James Bond. I suppose the only thing left to say is that 007 is still reporting for duty.

Cordy, the youngest and most beloved by her father, deals with the responsibility of becoming an adult.

Something that is unique about “The Weird Sisters” is the narration. It’s told in first person plural, like the three women got together and tell the story with one another. At first, I wasn’t sure how I was going to like it, but Brown does a good job of not making it awkward.

There are many references to Shakespeare as well. The sisters’ father is somewhat of a Shakespeare nut, as if I couldn’t tell by their names. The way the family communicates with one another is by quoting Shakespeare. Even though I am not all the familiar with the Bard, having only taken a semester reading his plays, I found the references enjoyable. I recognized a few from Hamlet, and even those I didn’t recognize didn’t keep me from loving the book.

The novel is about change, but it’s also about the sisters’ journey to find themselves. Through flashbacks the reader gets an idea of who the sisters once were, and it helps form who they are by the end of the book.

It kind of makes me wish I had a sister growing up because the stories and the relationships are something I feel sisters could relate to. So, go out and pick up this book. It should be back in the campus library by now.
Sudoku

Easy

9  4  7  6  5  9
  2  8  7  4
  9  1  7
2  4  3
  9 1 4 8 2
  9 4 7
1  9  5 8
5 3 7 9 4 6

Evil

9  5  3  4
  9  6  6  5
  8  7
1  6 9 5
  7 2
  4 3
  2 8 1 4
5  9  8

Visit www.websudoku.com for more puzzles and to play online!
It’s time to take the PJ out of PJ Bolte’s name and simply refer to him as Lightning Bolte because the guy is explosive and can do a lot of damage with one strike.

Lightening Bolte had a stupendous tournament this past weekend in the Activity Center. He was named the Clearwater River Casino Tournament’s MVP after averaging just over 25 points and nine boards in two games.

If this past weekend is any indication, Bolte and the rest of the Warriors are going to treat fans to an exciting and successful season.

Friday night, the Warriors opened tourney play by dropping College of Idaho 82-70.

Bolte had 29 points, didn’t miss a shot until an “easy” layup rimmed out with seven minutes left in the game. To make up for it he rebounded his own miss, was karate chopped and ended up hitting a pair of free throws.

Bolte, a 6-foot-6 senior from Tacoma, went 11-for-15 from the line, and 6-of-8 in the second half against the Yotes.

The only other shot he missed from the floor as a 3 late in the game.

“It was great to see,” LCSC coach Brandon Rinta said in a press release. “All of our bigs were really good tonight and they were working really hard in there. We’ve got to play inside-out and PJ is certainly capable of having nights like this.”

Saturday night the Warriors proved to be unflappable as they overcame a 12-point deficit at the half to beat Concordia 92-81 in overtime.

Bolte had 22 points, as did Jacob Champoux, in the win over Concordia. And the lanky center had nine rebounds.

What should send lightning bolts of excitement to the fans is the fact that Bolte was far from a one-man show.

True, Friday night’s performance was all Lightning. Yes, Fromm added 14 points off an impressive 7-of-10 night from the floor, and Champoux and Donte Archie dished the ball with panache, but it was Bolte who dominated every facet of the game.

That wasn’t the case Saturday.

Bolte was certainly good – 22 points and nine boards is far from shabby – but Champoux, a 5-11 junior guard from Seattle who missed a week of play because of an ankle injury, was blistering, especially in the second half.

Champoux scored 18 of his 22 points in the second half, and his trio of 3s in the final 5:35 of regulation were, to say the least, crucial.

He did miss one 3 at the buzzer that would have given the Warriors the win in regulation, but no one is going to hold that against him.

“It was tough not having him last week. He might be the best shooter we have, and he was great out of our 1-4 flat stuff tonight,” Rinta said. “It was pretty shocking to us that he missed that shot at the buzzer, but he’s going to be a big part of what we do the rest of the way.”

Robert Ellis and Tommy Sperry also got into double figures against Concordia as Ellis had 17 points and Sperry had 12 points.

Rebounding was equally spectacular as LC had a 10-board advantage on Saturday and a 12-board advantage against the Yotes on Friday.

“We have to feel good about where we are, but it doesn’t get any easier,” Rinta said. “We’re going to enjoy this one, though.”

Champoux and Fromm both joined Bolte in the all-tourney team.

This week the Warriors hope to continue to strike with lightning as they had to Spokane to take on Northwest University at 5 p.m. on Friday and Northwest Christian at 3 p.m. Saturday.

LC will return home when it opens conference play on Dec. 15 against Great Falls.
LCSC volleyball stalls at conference

Warriors lose to MSU-N in semifinals

By Sandra Kelly
of The Pathfinder

The LCSC volleyball team lost to MSU-Northern in four games Saturday morning, and with that loss they knew that making the NAIA national tournament would be tough, but not completely impossible.

“We’re just trying to stay positive,” LCSC coach LaToya Harris said in a press release. “Maybe someone will see that we’re a team that could compete nationally. We’re just waiting and hoping that someone else sees what we see.”

Turns out, that’s not the case. Instead, the Warriors learned late Sunday afternoon that their season ended when they lost to the Skylights.

It is the first time since 2006 that the Warriors were unable to advance to the national tournament. It is also the first time since 2005 that LCSC didn’t play for the Frontier Conference Tournament title.

That doesn’t mean the program is in a downward spiral. For example, junior Niurka Toribio was named the Frontier Conference Newcomer of the Year, and she and freshman teammate Treneisha Doyle were named to the Frontier All-Conference first team.

Freshman middle blocker Keisha Leubbert-Kennedy joined Doyle on the All-Freshman team, and if all three return, and there is no reason to think they won’t, that’s some power at the net.

Also honored by the Frontier was senior hitter Brianne Brown, who was a second team selection.

The Warriors should also retain the services of both junior setters, Nevena Dragovic and Naomi Hernandez.

Chelsea Shears and Marilee Zeeman proved to be solid in the back, while Chelsea Strong grew to be a major force in the middle.

Harris also has a handful of young players who didn’t receive a lot of playing time, but when they did, they made the most of it and they should all prove to be forceful and dependable not just next year, but for the next two to three years.

So despite the surprise at not reaching the conference title match, and the disappointment of not being invited to the national tournament, the Warriors’ future remains bright.

Basketball Warriors fall to Master’s and Biola

By Sandra Kelly
of The Pathfinder

“The thing that stands out there is that she’s the only sophomore in the group, but she’s very deserving of the honor,” LCSC coach Brian Orr said earlier in the year. “She’s a very special player, and of course we’re going to be counting on her this year.”

With Niebergall out at the point, Orr had to scramble to find players to fill the point guard slot, and while he hasn’t found a specific replacement, he has been using a variety of players at the position.

Against the Master’s, LCSC had a strong start, and led for most of the half, but late turnovers allowed the Mustangs to take a 10-point lead into the break.

The Mustangs were able to maintain that lead, and control the second half.

The Warriors had balance against the Master’s as Loree Hill and Caitlin Carr hit 3s and McKenzie Heaslet was strong inside.

Carr, a freshman from Auburn, Wash., led LCSC with 13 points and 11 boards on Friday. Heaslet added 11.

“I was really proud of Caitlin’s performance,” Orr said. “She didn’t look or play like a freshman. I also thought McKenzie played her best game as a Warrior and did it against some tough competition.”

Saturday, the Warriors were strong against one of the top teams in the country, but a 16-2 run early in the second half allowed the Eagles to take the win.

“The first half we really defended well, but we couldn’t get going offensively because Biola played pretty good defense too,” Orr said. “In the second half we lost our focus defensively and got down in a hole and just couldn’t fight our way out.”

Sophomore Tanis Fuller led the Warrior attack with 10 points and nine rebounds. Fuller’s performance has left LCSC with a different leading scorer in all four games, and even though the Warriors haven’t won a game, that kind of balance is valuable.

This week the Warriors host the Twin Rivers Physical Therapy Classic Friday and Saturday. New Hope Christian, Trevecca Nazarene and the College of Idaho will be participating.
Word on the Street

By Lindsey Keatts

How do you feel about the outcome of the election?

Amber Spencer
Major: Sports administration
Year: Junior
“It will definitely be an interesting next four years…”

Paisley Marks
Major: Kinesiology
Year: Sophomore
“I figured it was better if Obama got re-elected because now he has everything set up to get things done.”

Jorden Lorton
Major: Business
Year: Freshman
“I’m pretty happy because everything that he [Romney] said wasn’t really what I wanted.”

Jared Nau
Major: Kinesiology
Year: Junior
“It doesn’t affect me at all, the unemployment rate is going to stay the same either way.”

Randy Foller
Major: Business
Year: Sophomore
“I’m glad because I think it will be better for students.”

Campus Calendar
Sponsored by ASLCSC

Submit your club event information to aslcsconvolvement@lcmail.lcsc.edu

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Monday November 19</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>9:30 a.m. Division Chairs Meeting (LIB CR)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10 a.m. DIG 2012-2013 (SUB 225)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 p.m. DAC Meeting (SUB 225)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4:30 p.m. ASLCSC Senate Meeting (SUB 225)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7 p.m. Campus Real Life Club Meeting (SUB 225)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Tuesday November 20</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>9 a.m. President’s Counsel Meeting (ADM 200 ALUMNI)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9:30 a.m. Warrior Wednesday (SUB SOL)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 p.m. Accounting Club Meeting (MLH 220)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 p.m. Alumni Board Meeting (ACC CR1-211)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 p.m. Ambassador Honor Society General Membership (SUB 143)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7 p.m. RHA Meeting (SUB 225)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7 p.m. LDSSA Meeting (SAC 112)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Wednesday November 21</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>9 a.m. President’s Counsel Meeting (ADM 200 ALUMNI)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:45 a.m. NHS Division Meetings (SAC 112)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 p.m. Ticket Appeal Committee (MLH 210)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3:30 p.m. Faculty Affairs Committee (SUB 141)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4:30 p.m. ASLCSC Roundtable Meeting (SUB 225)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Thursday November 22</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>11:45 a.m. NHS Division Meetings (SAC 112)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 p.m. Ticket Appeal Committee (MLH 210)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3:30 p.m. Faculty Affairs Committee (SUB 141)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4:30 p.m. ASLCSC Roundtable Meeting (SUB 225)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Friday November 23</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>12:30 p.m. NHS Division Meeting (SAC 144)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| Saturday November 24 |

| Sunday November 25 |

Have a club meeting and want it posted in the Pathfinder Campus Calendar?
Email aslcsconvolvement@lcmail.lcsc.edu!

Abbreviation Key

Clubs and Organizations
- ASLCSC - Associated Students of Lewis-Clark State College
- WEBS - Warrior Entertainment Board
- RHA - Residence Hall Association
- LDSSA - Latter Days Saints Student Association
- ISNA - Idaho Student Nurse’s Association
- AHIS - Ambassador Honor Society
- SOWS - Student Organizations for Social Workers
- GSA - Gay-Straight Alliance
- BPA - Business Professionals of America

Buildings
- SUB - Student Union Building
- SUB SOL South - SUB Solarium South
- SAC - Sacajawea Hall
- SGC - Sam Glenn Complex
- FA - Fine Arts Building
- MLH - Meriwether Lewis Hall
- Music - on the corner of 8th st. & 11th ave
- Plamainwaa - on the corner opposite the Music Building on 8th street and 11th ave
- RCC - River City Church