PRESIDENT’S MESSAGE

It is a pleasure to continually see many wonderful LCSC alumni and friends on campus, in the community, and in my travels.

I am constantly impressed with you donors! You – LC’s alumni, friends, community leaders and parents – continue to step up and give of your time, talents, and treasures, and I thank each of you.

In this Honor Roll of Donors we recognize our donors from the 2003-04 fiscal year. The sense of community and family here at LCSC is an integral part of what makes our college special to so many people.

As we progress on our journey as a college, we should celebrate our past, and we can take pride in our present, but we must also plan for our future – and that is what the fundraising endeavors are designed to do. Never before in LC’s history has each of us connected with the college had such a wonderful opportunity to make a difference in the lives of our students.

I am grateful for, and delighted by, your enthusiasm and support and look forward to working with you in moving LCSC forward.

Go Warriors!

President Dene Kay Thomas

Soo Lee Bruce ’00

Greetings from LCSC! As always, your Alumni Association is hard at work. Our biggest accomplishment this year was endowing the LCSC Alumni Student Scholarship. The funding for the scholarship was raised from the annual golf tournament coordinated by the Association since 2002. We are thrilled to be able to help students with their education, and we’re elated to have had the opportunity to create a scholarship that will be awarded to a student whose parent or grandparent was a graduate of LCSC. This is the first time a scholarship has included criteria of this kind.

Besides the golf tournament, the Association has a few other projects in the works. We will continue to host this year’s graduation reception. We are planning next year’s alumni reunion and coordinating reconnect events in a couple different areas.

It has been my pleasure to serve as your president for the last two years. I will always look back at my tenure on the Alumni Board with fond memories. I encourage all of you to get involved in the Association. It’s a wonderful way to stay connected to your alma mater.

I hope you enjoy the latest edition of the Journey and be sure to check out www.lcsc.edu for all your alumni news.

Go Warriors!

Out with the old and in with the new took on a whole meaning for the New Year with the Activity Center and Warrior Gym.

The new Activity Center opened in grand style on Jan. 6 with the largest crowd to ever watch an indoor basketball game in the Lewiston-Clarkston Valley. Some 3,300 fans, including Idaho Gov. Dirk Kempthorne, turned out to watch the LCSC women’s and men’s basketball teams defeat Carroll College.

The evening was a celebration for both the college and community members. Admission was $1 with a can of food and more than 500 cans were donated to the local food bank. Gates opened two hours before tip-off and by 5 p.m., the Activity Center was more than half full. People in attendance also received a ticket for free popcorn.

Prior to the women’s game, a special ceremony to dedicate the floor was held. LCSC President Dene K. Thomas, Gov. Kempthorne, LCSC Student Body Vice President Mary Wak Wak, and LCSC Foundation member Marilyn Stonebraker spoke briefly. Stonebraker served as chair of the Campaign Steering Committee, which raised approximately $1.5 million for the project, while student fees covered approximately $1.5 million. The remaining 80 percent of the $15.1 million project is being funded by the state.

A special game ball presentation also precluded the women’s game by the Sobotta family. Robert Sobotta and his two sons, Pat and Bob, all played at LCSC as did Pat’s wife, Debbie Johnson Sobotta. The four presented the game ball that evening.

The Center has seating for 3,800 - 1,800 on each side of the court as well as bleachers that can seat 100 under each basket. This makes it the largest permanent seating indoor facility in the area, which should help draw concerts, conferences and other events to the valley.

Less than a month later after the highly-anticipated opening night, the wrecking ball brought down Warrior Gym and the gym annex to make room for completion of the project. The final phase of this project is an auxiliary gym and classroom and office space, including the home of the Kinesiology Department. The project is expected to be finished by late fall and a Grand Opening Celebration for the entire project will be held once the project is complete.

Talk with Business and Technology professor Jim Bowen and you’ll know that he is happy with his 12-year teaching career at LCSC.

When he describes how he instructs classes in marketing, management, retailing and business computer applications, Bowen compares the job to teaching his children to ride their bikes. “Teach, talk, push, then let go and see the excitement in students’ faces when they realize what they can accomplish.”

Preparing students to go where he has gone in his career and to do it better is what he likes best. Says Bowen, “I want to help students get jobs that pay more than mine—just like parents want better things for their children.”

Outside of teaching, Bowen actively supports LCSC’s chapter of Delta Epsilon Chi (DEC), a national organization for college students preparing for careers in marketing, management, merchandising and entrepreneurship. DEC’s local chapters and state associations are a division of National DECA, Inc. His DEC involvement also helps LCSC marketing students grow by enhancing their organizational development and giving them experience through competitions that allow them to compare their skills to others in their field. For the last 5-6 years, LCSC’s two-year marketing students have been successfully competing on the national level with students from bigger four-year schools.

For about 6 years Bowen has worked closely with the National Retail Federation and National DECA to create national certification exams that will make graduates who pass them more marketable, more promote-able and more stable on the job.

What’s next for this mover and shaker? He looks forward to having time to develop LCSC’s marketing program curriculum and recruit for it. And Bowen is doing post-graduate work in human resource development with the goal of getting his Ph.D in 2008.

In his words, “I truly believe I am at LCSC because it is where I’m supposed to be, and because I can see that I am making a difference. In this setting I can help a student with zero confidence see his or her true potential and become someone who can really do something.”
Benefiting the community by helping its members succeed is the goal of the Job Education Training (JET) program at Lewis-Clark State College.

The LCSC Adult Learning Center, in cooperation with the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, offers the JET program, which provides basic employment skills education to Idaho parents who meet certain low-income guidelines.

According to Traci Birdsell, an instructor in LCSC’s Adult and Family Education Department, the goal of JET is to help participants gain and retain employment, attain higher wages and acquire short-term skills training, which will lead to enhanced employment.

After meeting enrollment guidelines, JET participants take the Test of Adult Basic Education, which helps assess their educational needs. After the assessment, each participant meets with an instructor in LCSC’s Adult Learning Center to develop a service plan with short-term and long-term training and employment goals.

The JET program offers several courses to help individuals gain an entry-level knowledge in the job areas of office technology, bookkeeping, and health occupations. Courses incorporate basic skills instruction with job-specific skills and vary from four to six weeks in length.

Another opportunity within the JET program comes from supportive service dollars. This money is used to pay for short-term, non-credit training classes. For example, a participant’s long-term goal may be to become a Certified Nurse’s Assistant. That participant would first take the health occupations class to gain familiarity with medical terminology and health-care protocol. After that, the JET program could pay for the participant’s CNA class through LCSC Workforce Training. Since July 1, 2003, JET has paid out more than $40,000 in training for qualified, motivated individuals.

To accomplish the employment goals, a collaborative effort is essential between individuals, families, communities, and agencies/contractors providing other supportive services.

The JET program is another way LCSC continues to make a difference in our communities.

“Manners matter. Learning how to behave generates confidence,” says LCSC Director of Career Development Services Debra Lybyer. This is the biggest reason that CDS offers etiquette workshops on campus at least once each semester. CDS’s “Gaining the Competitive Edge” series includes professional as well as interview meal etiquette.

Professional etiquette deals with e-mail, introductions, chivalry vs. manners, cell phones and gender differences. Interview meal etiquette walks attendees through a meal; behaviors are discussed as they are displayed. The focus is on table manners, appropriate dinner conversation and strategies that allow the interviewee to concentrate on communicating instead of eating.

Lybyer saw a need for etiquette instruction when she became aware that many college students were not getting jobs because they lacked manners. With a degree in home economics, she was well equipped to teach etiquette.

For the last 10 years the workshops have been offered free to current LCSC students as well as alumni. Some campus entities require their students to participate, including the Division of Business Technology & Service, the Technical & Industrial Division, and many business class instructors. Approximately 1,000 students have attended with an about-even balance of men and women.

Manners matter at LCSC.
Financial community invests in BSO

The combination of student initiative and willing community partners is helping the Business Student Organization at Lewis-Clark State College truly connect Learning to Life.

The Business Student Organization has started an investment club that will help oversee a $50,000 investment portfolio for FirstBank Northwest. With the help of Clyde Conklin and Larry Moxley of FirstBank Northwest and Tim Lynch of Smith Salomon Barney Investment Services, the club will make all investment decisions on the portfolio beginning this spring semester.

The portfolio idea was the brainchild of three LCSC students – Matt Dudley, Joe McClain and Darrin Eberhardt – who learned about a similar investment club managing a live account at the University of Idaho. They discussed the idea with LCSC Business Division Chair Randy Martin and asked what they could do to get such an investment started. Martin suggested they try meeting with Lynch.

About a week later, Martin met with Lynch to discuss the possibility of Lynch teaching a personal finance class at the college. It was during that luncheon meeting that Martin broached the subject of the investment club, having the students be the portfolio managers and having Lynch, the only Chartered Financial Analyst in the Lewiston-Clarkston Valley, serve as the adviser. Lynch agreed it was a great idea and the two talked about how to make it happen. Lynch then made a few phone calls and later met with Conklin and Moxley. The two, according to Lynch, were looking for a way to make an impact on the community and they saw the opportunity to allow the club to oversee a $50,000 account for them as a way to give back.

“There will be income requirements, time horizons and risk levels constructed into the portfolio to meet those criteria,” Lynch says.

“This is like a dream,” Martin says. “It’s nice to have community members and students work as a team with the project. You want students to gain firsthand knowledge and experience like this.”

Dudley, who is president of the BSO, says the BSO has about 25 members and the investment club will probably have about 20 members, but how the club will make its investment decisions is still being worked out. Once club members decide on the investment options they want to use, they will have to make presentations to both Lynch and Conklin to sell their ideas, similar to what financial advisers must do with their clients. If Lynch and Conklin approve, those investments will be made and club members will closely monitor those accounts.
The Lewis-Clark State College athletic department remains a leader in the NAIA, both inside and outside the fields of competition. During the past year, eight of the 10 athletic programs at LC were ranked in the NAIA Top 25 and several teams and individuals made appearances at national tournaments.

LCSC also was named an NAIA Champions of Character institution for the 2003-04 school year for its involvement and commitment to following the Champion of Character guidelines. The NAIA Champions of Character program creates an environment in which every NAIA student-athlete, coach, official and spectator is committed to the true spirit of competition through five areas: integrity, respect, responsibility, sportsmanship and servant leadership.

Last winter, the men’s basketball team won the Frontier Conference regular-season and conference tournament titles, set a single-season win record and made it to the Sweet 16 at the national tournament while posting a 31-6 record.

The women’s basketball team is well on its way to its 14th consecutive season of 20 or more wins and is looking to get back to nationals after having an eight-year streak snapped last season despite a 23-10 record.

The women’s basketball team is well on its way to its 14th consecutive season of 20 or more wins and is looking to get back to nationals after having an eight-year streak snapped last season despite a 23-10 record.

The Warrior baseball team had another strong year, posting a 52-10 record and finishing in the top five at the NAIA World Series. Former Warriors also had an impact in the Majors last year as Keith Foulke pitched for the World Series champion Boston Red Sox while Bucky Jacobsen was making waves in Seattle before an injury ended his season.

Both the women’s and men’s tennis teams enjoyed strong spring seasons. The women’s squad won the regional championship and advanced to the national tournament in Alabama before falling in the second round. The men’s team also qualified for nationals in Alabama and was the No. 20 seed, but fell in the opening round. Coach Kai Fong was the national winner of the USTA/ITA Campus Recreation Award for doing an outstanding job of implementing recreational tennis programs on campus.

In cross country, the women’s team finished 17th at nationals in Kentucky. Tausha Kuzmic finished 16th overall to earn All-American status for the second straight season. The men had two representatives at the national meet.

The LCSC men’s and women’s golf teams both have high hopes this spring based on their strong national rankings. The men’s team is No. 17 in the country, while the women’s team is No. 12. The men won the conference title last year and the women finished second and then 14th at the national tournament.

The women’s volleyball team was beset by injuries and youth in finishing 9-18 last fall. The team had only two seniors while the rest were sophomores and freshmen, leaving plenty of optimism for the future.
ADMINISTRATION – In a move to consolidate and economize, LCSC went from a three-vice president and three-dean administration to two vice presidents and four deans last spring. Andy Hanson, Director of Recruitment and Retention, was named Interim Dean of Student Services. Ron Smith, Vice President for Finance at Berea College in Kentucky, took over as Vice President of Administrative Services in August. Smith, 55, worked with LCSC President Dene K. Thomas during 1987-94 at the University of Idaho. Former Natural Sciences and Mathematics Division Chair Christine Pharr is now the college’s Dean of Academic Programs. She replaced Political Science professor Richard Moore, who agreed to serve one year on an interim basis. President Thomas honored three instructors with the President’s Award for Outstanding Teaching. Honored were John Haehl, a professor in the Division of Business, Wayne Carroll, a professor in the Education Division, and Barbara Barnes, an assistant professor in the library.

BUSINESS - In August, Professor Gerald Ramey participated in a special session Round Table discussion on international trade at the University of Oxford in England. Division Chair, Randy Martin was selected for inclusion in the eighth edition of “Who’s Who Among America’s Teachers.”

BUSINESS TECHNOLOGY & SERVICE has two new faculty members, Joni Montez in the Paralegal/ Legal Assistant program and Brian Stephens in the Business Management program.

EDUCATION – Assistant professor Leanne Parker became a multicultural certified psychotherapist last spring after taking weekend classes in Spokane, which also helped her remain a licensed psychologist. Lecturer Robert Hayes served as one of the main speakers at a national conference last summer on substance abuse and child welfare in Baltimore. The conference provided opportunities to learn about relevant research and innovative program models in the substance abuse and child welfare areas. The Elementary Education Program, in conjunction with the Lewiston School District, held the sixth annual Space Day. Interns in the Elementary Education Program research, plan, and design dynamic lessons to help the sixth grade students investigate numerous concepts associated with space and space exploration.

HUMANITIES – Associate professor Mary Flores is serving as the division’s interim chair after former chair Bernice Harris resigned in August to become a Dean at Community College of Aurora in Denver. Professor Chris Norden’s sabbatical during the 2003-04 school year took him to New Zealand, Australia, India, Nepal, Turkey, Greece, Spain, Morocco, England, Brazil, Peru, Ecuador and China, spending two months at the latter teaching English as part of the America China Exchange Society. Charlie Pepiton of Moscow is the artistic director of the academic season of plays at the college and will direct one main stage show per semester and coordinate all aspects of the theater production during the academic year. Lecturer Bill Sheffield was one of 14 debate trainers selected from the United States for the 10th annual International Debate Youth Forum in Läänemaa, Estonia. He spent two weeks as part of an international faculty for the forum. He also serves as the director of the LCSC speech and debate teams. Traci Story is a visiting Assistant Professor/Coordinator of Communication Arts at LCSC-Coeur d’Alene. Claire Davis, William Johnson, Mark Sanders and James Tarter produced material for publications. Sean Cassidy and Patricia Keith made the video production “It’s Our Country, Too!": Alvin Josephy and American Indians.
NATURAL SCIENCES AND MATHEMATICS –
Craig Steenberg, a professor at LCSC since 1990, replaced Christine Pharr as Division Chair after Pharr’s appointment to Dean of Academic Programs. ... Masoud Kazemi, a lecturer in mathematics, was the recipient of the college’s H.L. Talkington Achievement Award for teaching excellence for the 2003-04 school year. The award specifically stresses excellence in classroom teaching, including using high standards with regard to the rigor and currency of course content as well as the level of student performance with respect to these standards. To qualify, instructors must be in their fourth year of teaching at LCSC. ... Associated professor Holly Patterson-McNeil won the LCSC Foundation Award. She designed most of the computer science program courses on campus and also teaches them. ... Shelly Hansen won the LCSC Adjunct Faculty Award for Excellence in Teaching for the 2003-04 year. ... Joanna Schultz, an associate professor, is part of a scientific group that received a nearly $1 million grant from the Idaho Board of Education’s Higher Education Research Council to establish a Center for Research on Invasive Species and Small Populations (CRISSP) in Moscow. The group will focus on invasive species, such as white pine blister rust, spotted knapweed and whirling disease in trout as well as declining populations of plants and animals. ... Associate professor Jeff Matthews was one of the guest speakers at the 116th annual meeting of the Geological Society of America in Denver in November. Approximately 6,200 geoscientists were in attendance.

NURSING AND HEALTH SCIENCES – Mary Ruth Hassett left Fort Hays State in Kansas to become the Division Chair last summer. She spent 22 years at Fort Hays State and replaced Donna Brandmeyer, who retired after four years in the position at LCSC. ... Two “firsts” last year were the first A.S. Degree for Radiologic Science and the first A.A.S. Degree for Practical Nursing.

LIBRARY – Susan Niewenhous, who served as Head of Public Services and Reference Coordinator and Electronic Services Librarian at LCSC since 1995, is the new Director of Library Services. She replaces Paul Krause, who retired after serving at LCSC for 20 years, including the last 19 as the director.
All the stories in this Journey reveal it has been quite an exciting year at Lewis-Clark State College, and I hope you can see how directly your investments of time and resources have fueled excellence throughout the College. You directed nearly $850,000 to scholarships, athletics, and special projects on campus to make this year have a 40 percent increase in private donations over last year. Each name listed in the Honor Roll of Donors is personally involved in changing lives – and thus, the LC Valley, the state and the nation. Thank you for making a difference.

This year, the Foundation has laid the groundwork for several new initiatives. We will soon be focusing fundraising efforts on improving the Center for Arts and History building, raising funds for student scholarships, and certainly building our endowment. This year we were able to give over 150 scholarships equaling over $150,000 to well deserving students. I look forward to working with you this coming year and invite you to stop by and see for yourself what your investment in LC is doing for our students, faculty, and staff.

Thank you for investing in LCSC!

Lewis-Clark State College Distinguished Alumni Awards Nominations now being accepted

Each day, Lewis-Clark State College alumni, faculty, staff, and others make tremendous volunteer and professional contributions to Lewis-Clark State College and surrounding communities. Through service and achievements in their profession and communities, these associates bring recognition to themselves and to Lewis-Clark State College.

The LCSC Alumni Association strives to recognize these outstanding individuals through the presentation of the Outstanding Alumni Award, Educator of the Year Award, and the Aletha Pabst Award. A list of our previous awards recipients can be seen on our website at www.lcsc.edu/alumni/awards.

Nominations for these awards are now being accepted. Details about the awards are available on our web site, www.lcsc.edu/alumni, or by calling (208) 792-2458.

STAFF NEWS

AWARDS – Whitney Pugh and Tracy Waffle ’92 were named Professional Staff Employee and Classified Staff Employee of the Year, respectively. Pugh is budget director at LCSC, while Waffle is undergraduate admissions supervisor in the Office of Admissions.

CENTER FOR NEW DIRECTIONS – Jim McCracken, who was a counselor for almost three years at the Center, replaced Lisa Horan as the program’s coordinator. McCracken, Horan and counselor Muna Crook presented at the Idaho Division of Professional-Technical Education’s Summer Conference in Boise.

COLLEGE ASSISTANCE MIGRANT PROGRAM – Jim Hill ’01 and Stephanie Lathrop ’00 are new to CAMP. Hill is the program coordinator and will be in charge of organizing and running various CAMP activities. Lathrop is the new program adviser, helping students adjust to college life.

COMMUNITY PROGRAMS – With the reorganization three new units joined Community Programs – Adult and Family Education with Donna Callahan ’84 promoted to director, Lewis-Clark Service Corps AmeriCorps Program with Debi Fitzgerald ’93 (former LCSC student body president) as director, and Summer School and Special Programs with Randy Harper as director.

INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS – Kathleen Grussing was promoted to director after longtime director Sharon Taylor retired in May. Grussing, who was International Student Services Coordinator, was replaced by Sheri Decker.

RESIDENCE LIFE – Karan Morscheck became interim Director of Residence Life, replacing DeeDee Kanikkeberg, who resigned to accept a job at UI. Morscheck spent 21 years at UI before accepting the LCSC job.

STUDENT BODY – Brandon L. Lytle ’02 is the new Coordinator of Student Activities. Lytle is a graduate of LCSC and holds Bachelor of Science degrees in Business Administration and Kinesiology.

NAIA World Series
May 27th – June 3rd, 2005
LCSC’s Harris Field

Ticket information:

REACCREDITATION – The college received glowing reviews during its five-year reaccreditation visit late last fall. Although the final report isn’t finished, the two reaccreditation visitors from the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities told President Thomas that LCSC has made marked and measurable progress during the last five years. ... Business Technology and Service will have its accreditation visit for its Medical Assistant program in March.

ENROLLMENT RECORDS – Last fall, LCSC showed continued impressive growth in enrollment with increases in full-time students and minority students. The college’s total full-time equivalency enrollment of 2,636 was a record high. LCSC also had a record of 353 minority students enrolled during the fall. ... Last spring, the college reported 3,246 students enrolled, an all-time best for the spring semester.

GRADUATION – The largest graduation class in the 111-year history of LCSC went through commencement exercise last May. A total of 555 degrees and certificates were awarded to the graduating class. Of the 522 graduates scheduled to be honored, 28 received two degrees or certificates, including five who earned three degrees or certificates.

NURSING EQUIPMENT – The American Association of Critical-Care Nurses, American Organization of Nurse Executives and Nellcor have selected the LCSC Nursing Program as one of 70 to receive nursing equipment this year. LCSC received a Nellcor N-395 Pulse Oximeter along with access to the expertise of Nellcor’s field-based team of hospital clinical consultants. The monitor is valued at $5,000.

SMALL BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT CENTER – The Idaho Region II Small Business Development Center on campus received glowing reviews and was accredited by the Association of Small Business Development Centers (ASBDC) for another four years.

RIF EARS HONOR – Reading is Fundamental received national recognition as one of eight out of 5,000 programs for their work. The LCSC program was honored in RIF’s national brochure for its diversity because it not only promotes children’s literacy, but works with prison inmates as well as others in several surrounding communities.

GED – More than 400 people in Idaho’s Region II earned their GED through LCSC during the past year. Region II covers Nez Perce, Idaho, Clearwater Lewis and Latah counties. LCSC offers GED preparation and testing through outreach sites in Elk City, Grangeville, Kamiah, Kooskia, Lapwai, Lewiston, Moscow, Orofino, Pierce, Troy and Weippe. LCSC also helps inmates at both the Idaho Correctional Institution in Orofino and North Idaho Correctional Institution in Cottonwood complete GED requirements.

SACRED GROUND VIDEO – The need for stewardship along the Lewis-Clark Trail is the topic of a wonderful video produced by LCSC’s Media Services, called “Walking on Sacred Ground.” The video informs tourists and visitors about some historic sites along the Lewis-Clark Trail and how preserving these sites are vital. The 15-minute video will be shown at National Park Service and U.S. Forest Service visitor centers along the trail as part of the Lewis-Clark Bicentennial celebration. A half-hour version also played on Idaho Public Television.

ONLINE NURSING – The college continues to be a leader in looking to the future, evident by the response to its online nursing assistant course through Workforce Training. Response has been so great that extra classes are being offered to prepare students for employment in home care, extended care facilities and hospitals as a nursing assistant.

eLEARNING – Although LCSC offers a broad range of distance learning courses covering the traditional subjects, the college is taking eLearning further than many other institutions with programs that directly address the region's shortage of health professionals. Nearly 800 high school students in Idaho and Montana take LCSC’s “Fundamentals For Health Professions” course, gaining exposure to careers as nursing assistants, first responders and EMTs. These health professions are critical in a region of the country where miles of barren land often separate the sick and injured from doctors, hospitals, and emergency services.

OPEN MIC – The Humanities Division sponsors open microphone night the last Monday of every month at Hogan’s Pub in Clarkston. Readings by LCSC students and community members feature original and published work.
Northerly News:
LCSC’s Coeur d’Alene Center

Lewis-Clark State College’s presence continues to expand with Northern Idaho dynamic growth. Now in its second year in the Harbor Center, the LC-Coeur d’Alene Center is experiencing another successful spring semester of enrollment increases and is studying new agreements with Kootenai county officials to expand educational facilities and further strengthen relationships with North Idaho College (NIC).

To celebrate NIC’s relationship with LCSC, the Coeur d’Alene Center recently sponsored the annual CSI/NIC Basketball Game on December 11, 2004. President Thomas was accompanied by her administrative team to cheer on the players and participate in the KVNI halftime radio show. The Associated Student Committee (ASC) also sponsored a half-time shoot out for a $250 scholarship. Joe Vanaman, a NIC sophomore of Tacoma, Washington, was the free-throw champion, who was recognized by NIC President Burke and LCSC Provost Fernandez.

The Coeur d’Alene Center recently launched an all new Web site where new and returning students can access on-line information about student services, financial aid, degree plans, contact numbers, and general calendar information. The web site’s construction and design was coordinated by the Center’s new Program Assistant, Kelly Vanderlinden ’03, who accepted this position in July 2003. Please consider visiting the new LCSC-Coeur d’Alene web site at www.lcsc.edu/cda.

Most recently, a 2004 LCSC-Cd’A alumnus and former ASC Chairperson, Shawn Keenan, was recently employed by the North Idaho College admission’s office to serve as a recruiter and admission specialist. We are especially proud of Shawn since he was not only an outstanding graduate of LCSC, but has demonstrated a tremendous enthusiasm to continue his professional development in higher education. We believe that Shawn will continue to connect North Idaho College students with Lewis-Clark State College students.

Inside LCSC

Join President Dene Kay Thomas in exploring the topics and people that make Lewis-Clark State College the special place it is.

The program airs on cable channel 13 at 6:30 a.m., 12:30 and 7:00 p.m. Monday through Sunday (except Monday nights) and on KLEW Monday mornings at 6:30.

During the months of February and March watch Polly Blasko, Director of College Advancement, while she hosts interviews with Lewis-Clark State College Alumni Dr. Travis Bartschi ’99, Eileen Laughney ’79, Darlene Bacon ’75 and Vera Grinolds ’38. Popular Kinesiology professor David Sears lost his battle with cancer last winter. He started teaching at LCSC on Jan. 10, 1977, which was the seventh longest tenure among current employees. He was the owner of the Yo Espresso coffee stand outside of the Student Union Building and was the creator of “The Dance,” a well-liked statue on Main Street in downtown Lewiston. Students are currently raising fund to install a sculpture by Sears on campus. The project is contingent upon reaching the goal of raising $50,000.

Dean Froehlich passed away the morning of LCSC’s graduation in May after a long battle with cancer. He served as Vice President of Administrative Services since 1987 and among his most notable accomplishments at LCSC were the new library, the establishment of Reid Centennial Hall, the Student Union building renovation, the new Activity Center, and his service as the treasurer of the LCSC Alumni Association.

Harlan Vandenbark, who retired in 2003 after teaching at Lewis-Clark State College for 31 years, passed away in March. Vandenbark, who began his career at the college in 1972, was active in the Technical and Industrial Division at LCSC. He was a favorite among the students, who named him Faculty of the Year for 2000-01.

Vicki Cerutti, an assistant professor in the Technical and Industrial area, succumbed to cancer in January. To honor her, the Lewiston Service League sponsored The Vicki Cerutti Memorial Golf Tournament last May.

Maureen Flynn Streibick, a lifelong supporter of Lewis-Clark State College, passed away at her Lewiston home in early May. Maureen completed grade school at the Normal School on the campus of what is now LCSC. Her grandfather, Bert Whitcomb, was the school’s physical plant manager at the time of her birth, and both her parents were employed by the college. Maureen lived on campus with her family in Spalding Hall from the time she was 9 until she married in 1951, beginning a lifelong connection with LCSC. She served on the LCSC Foundation Board for 13 years and was president of the Foundation for two terms.

Reese Parker, who once served as Dean of the School of Professional Studies at Lewis-Clark State College, passed away last summer in Georgia. Parker continually taught classes while serving as dean at LCSC from 1983 to 1996.

Wilson (Bill) Sanders, a former welding instructor, passed away at the age of 90. Bill worked for Potlatch Forests Inc. and was transferred to Lewiston in 1950, where he was master mechanic at the pulp and paper mill. He retired from the mill in 1976.

The Associated Students of LCSC are leading a project to install a sculpture by the late Dr. David G. Sears as a compliment to the new LCSC Activity Center. Plans are for a new 18 foot by 4 foot sculpture, “The Human Race,” to be designed from Sears’ original wood sculpture. The project is contingent upon reaching the goal of raising $50,000, which is necessary to fund the project.

Sears’ artwork, particularly his bronze sculptures, is housed in private and public collections across the United States. Sears’ bronze, “The Dance,” is located in Brackenbury Square in downtown Lewiston.

An account, the David “Doc” Sears Legacy Project, has been set aside for donations. Everyone is welcome to donate by contacting College Advancement Director Polly Blasko at (208) 792-2458 or pjblasko@lcsc.edu.
The LCSC Alumni Association is pleased to offer these new benefits to all LCSC alumni.

Once a LC student reaches 24 credits, they are considered an alumnus and will begin receiving the Lewis-Clark State College Alumni magazine, Journey, news and updates from their division and invitations to alumni events.

Some of the new benefits we are offering include:
- Discounts on insurance through Liberty Mutual
- $300 donation to the LCSC Alumni Association made in your honor by using Wells Fargo for home loans

*If you have a business that would like to partner with the Alumni Association to offer more benefits to our alumni, please contact us at 208-792-2458 or e-mail lcardwell@lcsc.edu.

AWARDS & HONORS

Jerry Mathes has become the first LCSC graduate to earn a prestigious graduate scholarship from the Jack Kent Cooke Foundation. Mathes is one of 39 recent college graduates to receive the annual award of up to $50,000 for the length of his graduate or professional degree program. He was among 1,226 nominees submitted by 747 colleges for the honor. These are the largest scholarships offered by any private foundation in the U.S. Mathes, 40, graduated with a degree in English last spring while earning a 3.91 cumulative GPA at LCSC, which earned him the outstanding graduate award in the Humanities Division.

Katie Rutan was one of six students featured in a college tuition article in a U.S. News and World Report article last August. The article on Rutan discussed how she used the Education Incentive Loan Forgiveness Program in Idaho, which pays the college tuition of education majors who agree to work in the state after graduation.

Kristine Masterson took second place in the nation-wide “Wildest Parts Contest” sponsored by the Mastercam Corporation. The contest looks for the wildest computer-aided manufacturing (CAM) project that tests Mastercam’s software programs. Masterson drew up a CAM program that made a 3-D replica of an actual human heart. Her design was made out of plastic materials and took more than two months to finish.

At the Business Professional of America National Leadership Conference, LCSC students took home 13 medals, including four first-place finishes. Christine Buzga of Troy placed first in both Advanced Office Systems and Procedures, and in Advanced Word Processing. She also was part of the Administrative Support Team that took first. Joining her on the team were Becky Enyeart of Lewiston, Shawna Freeman of Kellogg and Teresa Cooley of Thousand Oaks, Calif. Deanna Anderst of Lewiston placed first in Computerized Accounting. Also placing for LCSC were Judy Floch of Anatone and Melissa Mumbry of Clarkston. Those seven combined to win 14 awards, including six first-place finishes at the state competition in Boise.

Julia Daugherty of Grangeville and Ben Harrington of Lewiston (Entrepreneurship); Bryan Howland of St. Maries and Sunshine Rayfield of Sandpoint (Business-to-Business Marketing); and Eric Hanson and Bucky Shoemaker, both of St. Maries, (Sports & Entertainment Marketing) took home first-place finishes at the state DEC meet in Pocatello. LCSC’s chapter of Delta Epsilon Chi captured 20 medals overall.

Anthony Garner was the gold medal winner during Idaho SkillsUSA Championships for Heating, Venting and Air Conditioning (HVAC) competition. Garner was followed by Alan Monroe (silver medal) and John Rothchild (bronze medal). All three are from Lewiston.

Iva Zugic was one of 40 students in the nation selected to participate in the Women’s Leadership Institute last May at Auburn University in Alabama. Zugic, who is from Belgrade, Serbia, is majoring in Business Administration. She was chosen from more than 200 applicants after being nominated by LCSC faculty for the honor.

Mike Hand, from Las Vegas, placed second in the Automotive Technology skills competition, while Ben Pratt, from Reubens, took third in the Diesel Equipment skills competition at the Idaho SkillsUSA competition held in April at Boise.

B.J. Curtiss, a 29-year-old single mother of two and a part-time student at LCSC, was one of 30 winners in an essay contest sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation’s Women for Sustainable Development Initiative. To help raise conservation awareness in the Lewiston-Clarkston area, she single-handedly put together a successful Earth Fair at the college last spring.

Do You Have a Will?

Did you know that over half of adults in the U.S. do not have a will or other estate plans in place? According to a 2003 AARP survey, 40% of Americans over the age of 45 do not have a will. Regardless of your age or financial standing, if you’re concerned about who ultimately receives your property or possessions, then you need a will. It is important to take charge in deciding who eventually will get what. There are a number of ways to combine charitable gifts with your estate plans. You may designate a specific dollar amount or a particular asset to be transferred to a charity (such as the LCSC Foundation). You may also designate a percentage of your estate or whatever is left after all other gifts to loved ones have been fulfilled. You can also include provisions for charities through beneficiary designations of life insurance policies or retirement plan assets.

If you are interested in learning more about planned giving, please call Polly Blasko at 208.792.2458.
According to U.S. News and World Report, Lewis-Clark State College is No. 1 again. In the national magazine’s annual ranking of “America’s Best Colleges,” LCSC was chosen as the top comprehensive bachelor’s degree-offering public colleges in the West last fall. This is the fourth consecutive year LCSC has been honored as one of the top public colleges in the West and the second time it has been ranked No. 1. The other top ranking came in 2001. LCSC was ranked No. 3 in the West the past two school years.
