College is not about kegs and hot girls

by Samantha White of The Pathfinder

If I could go back to my freshman self, I’d probably tell her to take college a little more seriously. And also not to dye her hair blue. Basically, at eighteen, I made a bunch of poor decisions.

Too many people I know and used to be close with have either dropped out of college or flunked out, and often when they’re more than halfway through. Though I understand college isn’t for everyone, what I don’t understand is why college should appeal to everyone.

The media presents this idea of college that is inaccurate. Take “21 & Over” and even “Pitch Perfect” into consideration. Sure, there are parties, underage drinking and drug abuse (not something I’m advising) and all sorts of casual sex, but that doesn’t mean that college is about the social life. It should include it (hopefully nothing too crazy) but it shouldn’t become the thing that college is known for.

I become angry when I hear about people leaving college after spending time, money, not to mention their parent’s money in some cases and effort on something that they could have finished in a couple of years. I’m not saying everyone drops out because they party, but perhaps because college is more than just a giant party with kegs, red solo cups and girls in booty shorts.

At eighteen, I partied more than I went to class, and though I wanted to continue my college education, seriously considered dropping out instead of transferring. I wasn’t prepared for the nights full of actual studying — something I’d never had to do in high school — or the sixiapaper papers my professors expected me to conjure out of thin air. Yes, it took some time for me to adjust to the college life and actually do well in post-secondary school. But now, at twenty-one, I’m only three months away from graduating.

I guess I just want to tell those people who are considering dropping out just because it’s easier to do, and not because they have no other options, to not.

Don’t waste your money, other people’s money, your time and effort. It’s difficult enough to get a job with a bachelor’s degree nowadays let alone with a high school diploma.

As someone who did horrible their freshman year in school, and bounced back from it, I can say that college is not easy. No one can balance socializing, academics and everything in-between without letting something drop. Realize that you don’t have to. College isn’t a party, even if there are parties here and there, but a way to better oneself in life.

On the other hand, if you’re here for the underage drinking and the parties alone, I’ll tell you college won’t be easy. And instead of wasting money on loans you’ll have to pay back very soon, you might as well figure out sooner than later that college isn’t for you.

Book Review
Into the eyes of the fox

By Moriah Hale
of The Pathfinder

One should never look too long into the eyes of a fox.

Giselle was always warned of keeping her gaze from the cunning creature. She never knew why until an encounter deep in the woods. Looking her eyes with the gold eyed animal, Giselle finds herself no longer in her body. To her surprise she had switched places with the fox.

In a quest to get her body back, Giselle travels across a war-ravaged country that has lost its shape. She encounters sprites, talking animals, a chicken that lays a golden egg, a court with a spider for a judge, and bloodshed and destruction.

The Old Country, by Mordicai Gerstein, is set in a land where every winter is a hundred years and every spring a miracle, where the water is like music and music is like water. It’s here that all the fairy tales come from. Gerstein’s tale draws on a wealth of storytelling tradition and dramatizes the question of what it is to be human. Giselle’s own adventure brings about questions of power and justice.

The author created a work of art through the rich voice of the characters, and through the deep vein of magic that runs through the tale. The novel is both timeless and contemporary. On one hand there is the old fashioned fable, which deals with telling of a moral lesson; and on the other hand there is the actual lesson, which brings up present issues plaguing the world.

Even with the lessons undertone, the novel was a great read. It was different from most of the books I have come across, and a pleasant surprise. Stories like this keep me coming back for more.

Clothes for the Cause—clothing and textiles drive

Lewis-Clark State College
press release

Beacon Christian School is hosting the clothing and textile drive, accepting clothing and shoes of any kind, in any condition, from now until February 19, 2015. Following the clothing drive, Clothes for the Cause will pick up the donations and provide Beacon Christian School with the total of their fundraising effort, measured in dollars per pound.

Beacon Christian School is a Seventh-day Adventist school. Our school offers kindergarten through the eighth grade. Beacon has provided quality Christian education in a Christ-filled environment since 1918. We are accredited by the Northwest Accreditation Commission, which is a division of the AdvancED Accreditation Commission. Beacon is part of the worldwide Seventh-day Adventist school network. The Seventh-day Adventist educational system includes elementary and high schools, colleges and universities in countries around the globe. Enrollment is open to students of all faiths.

With the lessons undertaken, the novel was a great read. It was different from most of the books I have come across, and a pleasant surprise. Stories like this keep me coming back for more.

“Through events, Clothes for the Cause gives community groups – churches, sports teams, school bands, and others – the opportunity to turn their friends and families’ unwanted clothes into cash, while promoting sustainability and charitable acts in their community.

Unlike the quintessential fundraiser that asks people to buy candy bars, flower bulbs or candles, Clothes for the Cause assists community groups and youth and makes a positive impact on the environment and in-need communities, without charging event participants a cent. Instead of decaying in landfills, donated items are re-worn, reused or ethically recycled both in the United States and abroad, based on best use.

Clothes for the Cause provides all necessary tools and materials to host a successful fundraiser, including informational brochures, letters and flyers to distribute to the community members, tired-and-true promotion tactics, and convenient pickup of donated items at the close of the fundraiser. Event organizers can structure their events to raise a wide range of funds to support a variety of community projects – from purchasing new soccer jerseys to rebuilding a community.

Clothes for the Cause is a family-run fundraising company that collects clothing and shoes of any kind, in any condition in exchange for funds dedicated to schools, teams, clubs, community organizations, disaster relief and others. The organization has offices in California, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. Clothes for the Cause is owned by Gemtext, a Northwest-based sustainability-focused company serving the textile recycling industry through regional partnerships. Gemtext collects unwanted textiles and recycles or repurposes the materials in domestic and international markets. Resident Evil Remake HD

by Freddie Means of The Pathfinder

I can remember excitedly booting up my PlayStation 1, frantically tearing the shrink wrap off of my new copy of “Resident Evil” and jamming it into the disc drive. It had been out for several years at that point, but that didn’t negate any of my excitement. I had heard so much about it - more specifically, how scary it was and, more importantly, how good it was. The memory of my first playthrough of “Resident Evil” definitely stuck with me as I got older.

Now, the game hasn’t aged very well and subsequent revisits to the PlayStation original would disappoint - the controls were clunky, the game’s pace became agitating and it’s character models were just plain awful. Really, the novelty was gone and the technological limitations of the original PlayStation didn’t help it, either.

In 2002, Capcom released the “Resident Evil” remake for the Nintendo GameCube. Though I was skeptical at first, the updated version improved the visuals considerably, tightened the controls and added some new content. It was an actual remake and not just a port. Capcom had done a great job with their remake and I felt that it was worth the price tag to revisit the Spencer Mansion with Chris and Jill. Earlier this year, Capcom re-released this version on the Xbox One, PlayStation 4 and PC.

This version of the “Resident Evil” remake runs at a higher frame rate and resolution, features a new “alternate” control scheme (which only sets the default movement speed to run), trophies/achievements, some new costumes and, well, not much else.

Problems from the remake and the original still persist in its 2015 re-release: movement is still clunky, stilted and disorienting due to its fixed camera angles, moving from room to room is still agonizingly slow due to its loading animation and the map is still as useless as ever. But at its core, “Resident Evil” is still an interesting and entertaining game and is, at least, worth checking out.

If you haven’t played the original or remake of “Resident Evil,” I’d say that it’s worth checking out this version despite its steep price tag ($20.00). It’s basically the same game, though I would definitely say that this is the definitive version and if you’ve never gotten to experience this genre defining classic, now would be the time.

Check out this recipe

Courtesy of Freddie Means of The Pathfinder

This meal has three components: asparagus, chicken and rice, all of which are very simple to prepare. This meal will serve two people.

Two chicken breasts (approximately one pound)
Milk
Salt
Pepper
Old Bay seasoning
Garlic Powder
Cayenne Pepper

Take two chicken breasts (approximately one pound) and place them in a bowl with milk over night. This will help the chicken retain moisture while it cooks. For this recipe, I spiced the chicken with Old Bay seasoning, salt, pepper, garlic powder and some cayenne pepper. Spice it as liberally as you'd like. Remove chicken and place into a pan on medium heat with olive oil. Cover and let it cook for approximately 10 minutes (make sure you're watching it) and then flip it over and repeat until it is cooked through.

Rice:
One cup of brown rice
Water
Butter (to taste)
Salt (to taste)

Bring 2 and ½ cups of water to a boil. Add 1 cup of brown rice and reduce the heat to simmer. Let it sit for 30 to 40 minutes. Check and stir every 10 minutes. Add butter and salt to taste.

Asparagus:
½ pound of asparagus
Olive oil
Parmesan cheese
Salt
Pepper
Garlic powder

Pre-heat your oven to 400 degrees. Take a ½ pound of asparagus and lay them out flat on a baking tray. Drizzle olive oil across them and then roll them in the pan to get an even coat on them. Then add salt, pepper, garlic powder and Parmesan to taste. Check at 10 minutes and if you prefer them a little crispy, let them sit for 15 to 20 minutes. Once they are done, remove them from the oven and let them cool.

If you are planning a trip to New York City anytime soon it may be prudent to bring some hand sanitizer and some alcohol wipes.

A recent study was conducted on New York’s subway system that collected samples from all 466 stations.

At the end of the 18 month period of collecting the samples there were over 10 billion fragments of DNA to be analyzed.

As we all know, there are more things in this world that we do not know then there are that we do. Because of this, much of what was collected, is unidentifiable. Although it is safe to assume that most of it came from bacteria.

However, what has been identified is rather unpleasant. Everything from E.Coli to the Bubonic Plague.

It is not to say that we should walk around New York or any other city in hazmat suits. Most of our body is comprised of bacteria.

The best thing to do is to wash your hands often, take care of open wounds, stay home when you are sick, and keep your hands away from your face as much as possible.

Warriors end slide with win over Tech

*Lewis-Clark State College
Press release*

Led by a career-high 30 points from senior Tanis Fuller, the No. 24-ranked Lewis-Clark State College women's basketball team snapped a three-game losing streak with a 67-58 win over Montana Tech at the Activity Center on Saturday night.

LC State, now 19-7 and 5-5 in the Frontier Conference, returned to form with a monstrous second half, outscoring the Orediggers 40-25 after being down 33-27 at the break.

“I was really proud of the way we shot the ball the second half. We were looking for it,” said LCSC head coach Brian Orr. “Definitely after a couple losses this one was much needed.”

Fuller, a product of Lewiston High School, scored 14 of the Warriors' first 15 points to start the second half, giving the team a 39-37 lead with a layup off a turnover with 15:20 left to go.

A little while later Lapwai, Idaho, product Natahnee Spencer hit back-to-back threes to put the Warriors up 50-39. She finished with nine points, all of them coming on 3-pointers in the second half.

“Tahnee kind of got us going. I thought she was a big, big part of our success the second half.”

Fuller was 12-of-19 from the field, 6-for-7 at the foul line, and tallied seven rebounds, two assists, and two steals.

“Definitely after a couple losses this one was much needed.”

Led by Martha Dembek's 21 points and eight boards, the Orediggers made a game of it though, thanks, in large part, to a 48-36 rebounding advantage resulting from 20 offensive boards.

Outside of Fuller, no other Warriors scored in double figures, however, Brooke Litalien and Megan Risinger, who led with nine rebounds, had seven points apiece.

“Hopefully this will kind of get us out of the doldrums a little bit,” said Orr. “Now we've got to get back on the road again.”

The Warriors head to Billings, Mont., to face Rocky Mountain on Thursday and then travel to Helena, Mont., to play No. 18 Carroll on Saturday. With just four games left in league play, LCSC needs a strong finish if it hopes to host in the opening round of the league playoffs.
LCSC splits with No. 18 Concordia; reschedules game with William Jessup

Lewis-Clark State College press release

Even though they were gathering plenty of hits, the Lewis-Clark State Warriors weren’t turning many of them into runs. So, Max Whitt and Seth Brown found a more efficient way to score: hit the ball farther.

Whitt and Brown both homered to lead the second-ranked LCSC baseball team to a 7-3 victory in the second game of a doubleheader against No. 18 Concordia University Irvine on Thursday. Despite notching 10 hits — six more than the Eagles — the Warriors dropped the opener 4-3.

The split moves the Warriors’ record to 6-3 on the season. They now have just two games remaining in their season-opening road trip, which was originally supposed to be 12 games long. It is now a game shorter after LCSC and William Jessup University agreed to move Monday’s contest between the schools to April 16.

Concordia, which won the Avista-NAIA World Series in 2011, is 11-3 following Thursday’s results. The Eagles had won five straight games before LC State claimed the nightcap.

The Warriors finished the doubleheader with 21 hits, 10 more than the Eagles. Whitt, the Warriors’ No. 3 hitter, went 3-for-8 and now has a team-leading four home runs on the season, including a pair of grand slams, to go with a team-high 14 RBIs.

Brown, who is batting .389, is second on the team with three home runs. The junior also collected three hits against Concordia while Michael Sexton, who has nine hits in his last four games, went 4-for-7 at the plate.

It was Matt Becker, however, who got the Warriors’ on the scoreboard in Game 2 with a fielder’s choice in the third inning. Brown then followed with a solo home run in the fourth, driving a 2-2 pitch over the wall for a 2-0 lead.

The bottom of the LC State batting order then set the table for Whitt in the fifth. Raymond Pedrina led off with a double and Zach Holley reached base after Concordia starter Dillon Moran hit him with a pitch. Leadoff hitter Cabe Reiten then singled through the left side of the infield to load the bases.

After Becker hit into a fielder’s choice, which did not result in any runs, Whitt powered the first offering from Moran over the outfield wall, giving the Warriors a 6-0 advantage.

That was more than enough run support for Peter Irvin, who drew the start on the mound for the Warriors. The 6-foot-8 left-handed junior improved to 2-0 on the season after ceding just two runs on four hits and two walks in 5.2 innings.

Nick Sagendorf worked part of the sixth and all of the seventh to earn his first save of the season. The junior did not record any strikeouts, but he also didn’t issue any walks, a problem that has plagued Warrior pitching at times this season.

Ty Jackson, who is batting .419, drove in his 12th run of the season with a single in the top of the seventh while Reiten, who leads the Warriors with a .428 average, went 3-for-4 in the contest.

In Game 1, it was Reiten who knotted the score at 2-all with an RBI groundout in the fifth inning. Concordia had taken the lead in the previous inning when Dane Vande Gucht hit a two-run homer off LCSC starter Quin Grogan.

A right-handed junior, Grogan gave up two more runs in the fifth before being relieved. He surrendered just four hits, but walked five Concordia batters.

After replacing Grogan in the fifth, Dillon Keene held the Eagles scoreless for the final four innings to preserve the 4-2 victory. Keene issued just one walk in his four innings of work.

Still time to Adopt a Seat at the Silverthorne Theatre

Lewis-Clark State College press release

The Lewis-Clark State College Silverthorne Theatre upgrade is nearing completion and is in the final stretch of its fundraising campaign. $15,000 in cash donations is needed to upgrade the lighting and curtains in preparation for the first production scheduled for March 25 - March 29, 2015.

Individuals can donate towards this project by adopting a seat for $200. A personalized name plate will be placed on the seat in recognition of your support. Donors are also invited to be a guest at the first production in the newly renovated theatre — The 1940’s Radio Hour by Walton Jones.

To donate visit www.lcsc.edu/giving or you can mail donations to:
LCSC Foundation
Attn: Adopt-a-Seat

Lewiston, ID 83501

About the Project
The Idaho Division of Public Works allocated $690,000 from the FY2014 Permanent Building Fund towards the project. An additional $160,000 was provided by Lewis-Clark State College. The upgrade includes new windows, lighting, main stage, balcony area, seating, and additional outside entrance to the west side of the theater (to include ADA access, and loading dock for the stage).

About the Foundation
Established in 1984 as a non-profit educational foundation, the Lewis-Clark State College Foundation is dedicated to providing a margin of excellence for LCSC students. In securing resources beyond those provided through state funding, the Foundation assures an educational experience that is more financially accessible to students, as well as one which is well-rounded and complete.

MEMORANDUM

TO: President of ASLCSC
   Editor of Pathfinder

FROM: J. Anthony Fernández, President

DATE: February 13, 2015

SUBJECT: Public Hearing of Proposed Student Fees for FY 2016

As specified in State Board of Education policy V.R.2.a., this letter serves as initial notice of a public hearing to be held at 12:00 PM on Tuesday, February 24, 2015 to gather input on proposed student fees to become effective with the Fall 2015 semester. The hearing will be held in Sacajawea Hall, Room 112. Students wishing to submit written testimony should send their comments to the Office of Vice President for Finance and Administration in the Administration Building on the Lewiston campus.

This proposal includes an increase of no more than 1.7% ($50.00) in the overall full-time rate assessed resident students each semester. Revenue generated by the fee increase will be used to support the ongoing costs of the institution.

No changes to the Student Technology, Facility, or Activity Fees are proposed at this time.

The proposal also includes increases to the credit hour fee for both part-time and summer term instruction of $5.00 per credit hour (a 1.7% increase). In addition, increases to nonresident tuition in the amount of $241.00 per semester (a 4.6% increase) and the Asotin County nonresident tuition in the amount of $74.00 per semester (a 4.6% increase) are also proposed.

This letter should also serve as a request that the attached Notice of Public Hearing be published in the The Pathfinder. Any assistance that you can provide us in notifying students of the hearing will be greatly appreciated. This notice will appear on the web site of the LCSC Budget Office for the next few weeks at: http://www.lcsc.edu/budget.

Thank you.

LCSC takes Tech, climbs to second in Frontier standings

The win lifts the Warriors to 206 and 64 in league play. They trail only No. 15 Montana Western (196, 73) in the standings, a team they'll face in their final game of the regular season on Feb. 28 at the Activity Center.

After winning three straight at home, the Warriors are now 15-1 at the friendly confines of the Activity Center this year. But they'll have to take their game back out on the road to Montana next week when they face Rocky Mountain (169, 54) in Billings on Thursday and Carroll College (168, 5-5) in Helena on Saturday.

"It's nice to be at home. Our guys definitely play with a lot more energy here at home," Rinta said. "Now we're heading back out for our final two road games. At Rocky, at Carroll. It's going to be a big test for us. Can we carry this momentum out on the road? Can we continue to play at this level in someone else's gym after a long bus ride?"

These questions will soon be answered and will mean the difference for whether or not the Warriors play for the regular season conference crown in its final home games at the end of the month.

Smith powers Warriors past pesky Flames

The product of Newport, Wash., averaged 23 points, 10.5 rebounds, 3.5 blocks, and 1.5 assists in the two games. After leading the team with 22 points, eight boards, and three blocks against MSU-Northern, he turned it up yet another notch to tally 24 points, a season-high 13 boards, four blocks, and three assists against UGF.

Wiley, the nation’s second-most accurate shooter (.654), shot at a 65.5 percent (19-of-29) clip from the field on the week, and was 8-for-8 at the free throw line.

He leads the Warriors, who are seeking their 10th trip to nationals and first since 2013, in points per game (15.7) and ranks in the NAIA’s top 50 in eight different statistical categories including No. 7 in total blocks (47), No. 11 in block per game (1.96), and No. 26 in total rebounds (175).

Lewis-Clark State College press release

Not only did Robert Smith Jr. provide productive hits, they were timely. The slugger drove in five runs, two coming on the game-winning single in the ninth, to lift the second-ranked Lewis-Clark State baseball team to a 7-5 victory over Bethesda on Saturday afternoon.

Smith, a transfer from Chabot College, finished 4-for-4 at the plate. Besides the decisive base knock in the final inning, he also drilled a three-run homer, his first of the season and one of two on the day for the Warriors.

The win not only bumps the Warriors’ record to 8-3, it concludes their 11-game road trip, the longest to start a season in a school history. The Warriors will finally get to christen newly refurbished Harris Field on Friday, when they open a four-game series with Western Oregon.

Before the Warriors could start their trek home from California, however, they had to sneak past a pesky Bethesda squad. Midway through the game, that didn’t seem like it would be a problem.

The Warriors broke open a scoreless contest with a five-run burst in the sixth inning. Dylan Tashjian led off the inning with his second home run of the year, a solo shot to right field. Three batters later, Smith lifted a 1-2 pitch over the wall in left for his first homer of the season, giving the Warriors a 4-0 lead.

The next batter, Chase Hafer, lashed one of his two hits in the game, a single, and eventually came around to score on a single to center by Andris Rizquez. In all, the Warriors tailed five hits in the inning.

Despite ending up with a no decision, LCSC starter Adrian Martinez stymied the Flames. The junior right-hander scattered four hits and one walk over five scoreless innings.

While the Flames could not rattle Martinez, they rallied against Warrior reliever Cameron Pongs. The lefty gave up five scores, including four earned runs, on four hits and a walk over the sixth and seventh innings. Christopher Jacobs kickstarted Bethesda’s comeback when he smashed a three-run homer in the sixth.

The Flames then knotted the score at 5-all in the next inning when Daniel Juarez added an RBI double and Esau Madrigal singled up the middle.

Colton Wright, who replaced Pongs to start the eighth, finally silenced the Bethesda bats. The senior ceded just one walk and did not allow a hit in his two innings on the mound to help set the stage for Smith and the Warriors in the top of the ninth.

Cabe Reiten, who extended his hit streak to 11 games with a single in the third, reached base via a Bethesda error to start the inning. Following a pair of groundouts, Julian Ramon drew a walk to give Smith another at-bat. Smith then mashed a two-out single to give the Warriors a 7-5 advantage.

With two outs in the bottom of the ninth, the Flames did manage to bring the tying run to the plate when Wright plunked a batter. But the LCSC hurler, who earned his first win of the season, responded by forcing Madrigal to ground out to short to end the game.
Lawyers Clark State College  press release

Following strong showings at the Cougar Indoor this past weekend, three Lewis-Clark State Warriors — Ariel Jensen, Cody Larson and Kolton Parsons — all received Frontier Conference Indoor Track and Field Athlete of the Week awards Monday.

Jensen, a freshman from North Lakewood, Wash., placed second among 32 competitors in the women’s 800 meters with a time of 2:19.15. That mark not only set a school record, but also met the automatic qualifying standard, meaning Jensen punched her ticket to the NAIA Indoor National Championships next month.

In addition to her performance in the 800, Jensen also ran the final leg for LCSC’s 4x400-meter relay team. The crew posted a time of 4:11.93, which established a new school record and placed the Warriors fourth in a field of 16 teams.

Larson, a junior from Boise, Idaho, earned the conference’s weekly award for the second time this season. He won the men’s 3,000 meters at the Cougar Indoor after recording a time of 8:36.44. Larson has won every event he has entered this season and has already qualified for nationals in the 3K and the mile.

After serving a church mission, Parsons made the most of his first meet in almost three years. The freshman from Jerome, Idaho, placed seventh in the long jump — besting a number of NCAA Division I and II athletes in the field of 20 — with a mark of 21 feet, 7 inches.

Trio of Warriors earn weekly conference honors

Lewis Clark State College  press release

Much like the day before, when they cobbled together a stunning ninth-inning rally, the Lewis-Clark State Warriors once again found themselves in a hole on the road. Only this time, there would be no late-game heroics.

Despite reaching double-figure hits yet again, the second-ranked LCSC baseball team suffered a 10-3 setback to Cal State San Marcos on Wednesday afternoon. The loss snapped the Warriors’ five-game win streak, dropping them to 5-2 on the season.

The Warriors, in the midst of a 12-game road trip to start the season, collected 10 hits against Cougar pitching, but left eight runners stranded on base. Seth Brown and Michael Sexton had two base knocks apiece for the Warriors, who have recorded at least 10 hits in every game this season.

Cal State San Marcos roughed up five LC State pitchers, including starter Cameron Pongs, for 12 hits. Pongs suffered the loss after allowing four runs, two of which were unearned, on three hits and three walks. The senior left-hander lasted only two innings.

L.A. Gamo and Stefan Miladinovich did most of the damage for Cal State San Marcos, which improved its record to 4-4 with the win. Gamo, the Cougars’ leadoff hitter, went 2-for-3 with five RBIs while Miladinovich drove in three runs on a pair of hits, which included a solo home to start the seventh inning.

The Warriors’ best chance to put some early pressure on the Cougars came in the second inning, when, already facing a 1-0 deficit, they loaded the bases with two outs. But the Warriors failed to plate any scores after Raymond Pedrina struck out swinging.

The Cougars, on the other hand, took advantage of their bases-loaded situation in the bottom of the second when Gamo smoked a two-run single to left field. The home team added an RBI groundout later in the frame for a 4-0 lead.

Ty Jackson put the Warriors on the scoreboard in the third, belting a ball off the wall in right-center field for a run-scoring triple. It was the second triple of the season for the 6-foot-3, 220-pound junior, who, along with Brown, leads the team with 11 RBIs.

But much like they did against Pongs, the Cougars just kept chipping away at all four of LC State’s relievers. They scored in every inning but two, and tallied multiple runs in three of those innings. They led 9-1 before the Warriors managed to plate their final two scores in the top of the eighth.

Chadwick Ka’alekahi swung at the first pitch he saw in the inning, bashing it for a run-scoring double with two outs. Robert Smith Jr., pinch-hitting for Sexton, then punched an RBI single to left to complete LC State’s scoring for the day. It was the most productive inning of the game for the Warriors, who tallied four of their 10 hits during the frame.

Warriors’ Wiley dubbed Frontier Player of the Week

Lewis Clark State College  press release

After leading the Lewis-Clark State men’s basketball team to a pair of much-needed wins, including an upset of a Top 25 team, Jacob Wiley earned Player of the Week honors from the Frontier Conference on Monday.

A sophomore from Newport, Wash., Wiley averaged 23 points, 10.5 rebounds and 3.5 blocks in the Warriors’ two games last week. He also shot 66 percent from the field, going 19-for-29, and finished 8-for-8 from the foul line.

The 6-foot-6 forward started the week by tallying 22 points, eight rebounds and three blocks in a 79-52 win over Montana State-Northern. He followed up that performance with an even better effort, posting 24 points, a season-high 13 rebounds, four blocks and three assists in the Warriors’ 82-65 triumph over 20th-ranked Great Falls.

This is Wiley’s second Player of the Week award, and the third for an LCSC player this season. Classmate Erick Diouf earned the honor Nov. 10.

Wiley and the Warriors, 19-6 overall and 5-4 in the FC, are just one game out of first place in the conference standings.

Warriors’ win streak snapped by Cougars

Lewis Clark State College  press release

The Lewis-Clark State College women’s basketball team checked in at No. 24 when the NAIA released the Division I Coaches’ latest poll.

The Warriors, who have recorded a perfect 1-0 record in every poll this season and are one of five Frontier Conference teams in the Top 25, received 66 points after collecting the other first-place votes. They have appeared in every poll this season and are currently ranked seventh consecutive week, the Oklahoma City ranked second in the coaches’ rankings.

Heading into this week, the Warriors were riding a three-game win streak and will air on 950 KOZE-AM. Saturday at the Activity Center in Lewistown, Mont. The LCSC women are 18-7 overall on the season, collected 10 hits against them to 5-2 on the season.

They are coming off a stretch where it faced ranked opponents in each of its last three games. The Warriors next foe, Montana Tech, is 8-16 overall and winless in conference play. That game tips at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday at the Activity Center and will air on 950 KOZE-AM.

Freed-Hardeman once again topped the rankings. For the seventh consecutive week, the Tennessee school landed at No. 1 after tallying nine first-place votes and 250 points overall.
