III. Student Absences Policy – Lori Stinson, Provost and Andy Hanson, VP for Student Affairs

Andy Hanson discussed the student absence policy as approved last semester. Policy sought to increase communication between faculty and students who may miss class because of participation in college associated functions such as athletics or student government. A form “College Related Student Travel” was presented. Students would provide this to the faculty member ahead of absences in order to inform and coordinate assignments and expectations. This form does not “excuse” any student absence or permit late assignments as that is up to individual faculty.

Q & A:

1. Do faculty need to do anything in “colleague/Warrior Web”? Not clear at this time.

2. When should the form be submitted? As early as possible, but 2 weeks ahead of the activity is reasonable.

3. Who keeps the completed form? Student and faculty both sign the form. A copy should be made as the instructor and the student will both need one.

4. Where is the form found? Registrar's office website under “forms”

5. How do faculty know the student actually attended the activity? Consider some way to verify that the student attended the activity (selfies, signatures, brochures). In addition, a reminder that faculty can look on the website for athletic schedules.

IV: Snow policy

This policy was developed after severe weather events in the Fa16 semester closed campus, causing final exam issues with no backup plans in place. This is a procedure in the event of inclement weather, to reschedule final exams and final grade submission.

V. Curriculum – Becky Snider (Curriculum Chair)

New and improved website shown with a quick tutorial of processes from the home page. There is a program link on the left with information on how to notify and get curriculum changes approved. One click of a matrix sends you to the appropriate submission site. A reminder that GEM courses do require additional work. The system will now open the beginning of January, which allows more time for submissions. If you need assistance, do contact Rebecca Snider or Provost Stinson.

VI. Center for Teaching and Learning (CTL) – Rachel Jameton (Director)

Notification of the name change from the TLC to CTL as this is the “standard name” in other institutions, which will allow greater access to these resources. A reminder that programs are described on the webpage along with some of the program highlights including: Co-teaching, elements of course design, informal observations (online & classroom), workshop leadership, and inclusive practices. There are welcome back workshops today. An RSVP is always preferred, but not required.

New this semester: Inclusive Practices Certificate: The goal of this program is to create a more diverse and inclusive campus and community. This a way to work on personal inclusive practices in your teaching. The certificate includes workshops where individuals select a plan for attending other workshops and events, including adding content/activities to courses, and then reflecting/sharing those at the end of the year.
