Course Description

This course is the first of two human behavior courses which deal with research, theories, and concepts of individual and family development from an ecological perspective. This course builds upon a knowledge base from the Liberal Arts core in biology, psychology, political science, economics, sociology, and anthropology. It adds a social systems perspective to explore the determinants of human behavior in infancy, childhood, adolescence, and adulthood. Class, ethnicity, race, and gender are emphasized, while family, group, organization, community, and society provide the person/environment transactional context. This course introduces the major psychological, sociological, and social work theories underpinning social work practice.

Pre-requisite: Psychology 101 or permission of the instructor.

Purpose of the Course in the Curriculum

This course is an introduction to developmental theories, concepts, and research on the beginning of the life span. The information is an aid to understanding the person in the environment and methods for assessing the biopsychosocial and spiritual domains of the client. Attainment of this knowledge should promote self-growth as well.

The life span information is to assist students in working with different age groups while being mindful of how diversity informs our assessments and interventions in the field of social work. This class should provide a basis for assessment of clients within the ecological perspective and an information base of developmentally appropriate behavior.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- Understand the application of the Biopsychosocial model when assessing clients
- Improve critical thinking skills as they apply to assessment, theory analysis, and research
- Have a basic understanding of some well-known developmental theories and research applied to assessment work in clients from birth to childhood
- Analyze and critique theoretical frameworks in the context of social work practice
- Engage in research and writing to improve professional writing skills
- Experience collaboration with colleagues in other fields

- Explore cultural differences in diverse populations and gain some understanding of the importance of cultural competence in social work practice
- Gain assessment skills that utilize good research, boundaries, critical thinking, and social work ethics

Technology Requirements

You will need reliable access to the internet, a word processor, web browser (to use Canvas) and email to succeed in this course. Please be sure you have all equipment necessary for typing, printing, and emailing required assignments.

Core Competencies and Practice Behaviors

The Council on Social Work Educations sets educational standards for all accredited social work programs. The 2015 EDUCATIONAL AND POLICY ACCREDITATION STANDARD (EPAS) establishes 9 Core Competencies and 31 Practice Behaviors that social work students are expected to meet upon graduation from an accredited BSW Program. Professional Social Work Education is competency-based education.

Teaching Methods and Class Climate

The primary teaching approach in this class will be collaborative learning. Materials in the course will be presented through class lectures to prompt discussion, reading material, and media presentations. You will be required to participate in pairs and group work as directed—it is up to you to follow through and manage communication with your partner(s). Students will be responsible for all materials presented in class and all outside assignments. Assigned readings and topics for the day are outlined in modules on Canvas. Although a calendar is included with this syllabus, be sure to check Modules and Announcements in Canvas for the most accurate assignment descriptions and deadlines.

Your classroom participation may involve weekly postings and responses to the Discussion Board for this class on Canvas, depending on how engaged people are when we meet as a class. These discussions will generally be centered around assigned reading, lecture notes, and assignments we are working on in class. While we will not always be formal in our online classroom work, you are expected to behave in a manner consistent with a developing professional (both online and in class).

Students are also evaluated on their personal and professional behavior or conduct as described in the BSW Handbook (https://www.lcsc.edu/media/7425714/social-work-student-handbook.pdf). Please refer to the Handbook for further clarification.

Because of our commitment to social and economic justice, we are open to hearing all views and, when discussing politically charged subjects, all perspectives will be considered with a focus on critical thinking. Students are expected to be respectful of the opinions of others and willing to practice civil discourse.

Lewis-Clark State College's Statement of Inclusion

Regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, or sexual orientation, you will be treated and respected as a human being. Please see LCSC's Diversity Commitment Full URL: (https://www.lcsc.edu/diversity).

Attendance

An important goal of social work education at LCSC is to prepare you for the challenging and rewarding jobs you will get when you graduate. Learning and developing your professional behaviors or “professionalism” is one important part of this preparation. Attendance and participation are necessary for you to learn about skills and professional behaviors in social work, but they are also a way for you to practice them.

Professional Social Workers are expected to be on time, present, engaged, and prepared when working with clients. Therefore, as a social work student you are expected to be on time, present, engaged, and prepared when taking classes, participating in volunteer service, attending a practicum, or taking part in activities at LCSC. (In this class, this applies to you even if you are not a social work major!)

Missed classes will result in zero participation points for the day. Late arrivals and early departures lose 5 points. (If I have already started the class lecture or discussion and you come in to class, you are late.) Exceptions will be rare and must be arranged in advance.

Attending class via Zoom

Zoom will not be an option this semester. We can revisit this if any special circumstances college-wide occur, but please plan to attend in person.

Announcements & Email

The Announcement feature on Canvas is a vital tool I will use for this class. I will frequently use it to provide feedback and updates for the class, so pay attention to both Announcements on Canvas and any messages from me via your LCSC email. You are responsible for any information provided in Announcements or through email so I recommend that you check each one daily.

Professional Writing Standards

One of the things you will be developing through your college career is your writing skills. If you struggle with writing, it is your responsibility to seek out and utilize resources such as the writing lab and campus writing tutors. For this class, all printed work submitted should be prepared in accordance with the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (7th Ed.) unless otherwise noted in the assignment. Therefore, allow sufficient preparation time for proofreading, correction of errors, and peer review as needed.

Professionals are often judged based upon the quality of their written work. Carelessness in spelling and editing suggests that there will also be mistakes in the substance of the work. Therefore, written work with misspellings and other editing problems will be graded down on this basis alone. All work must be completed in 12-point font, preferably Times New Roman or a similarly readable style.

Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Students share with the faculty the responsibility for academic honesty and integrity. The College expects its students to do their own academic work. In addition, it expects active participation and equitable contributions of students involved in group assignments. Violation of the Student Code of Conduct, in whole or part, could result in an “F” grade for the course. Please review information available online about the Student Code of Conduct (https://www.lcsc.edu/student-affairs/student-code-of-conduct). For information related to plagiarism and cheating, pay special attention to the section on Academic Dishonesty (https://www.lcsc.edu/student-affairs/student-code-of-conduct/prohibited-conduct).

In addition to action by the professor, all incidents may be reported to Student Affairs.

Please see “Tips for Class Success” (in Module 1 on Canvas) for more information. You will be held responsible for knowing/understanding all information provided, so be sure to ask questions if you have any.

Incompletes

Students are expected to complete all work according to the expectations outlined in the syllabus and on assignments. Incompletes are not granted automatically. A grade of “I” may be assigned only in rare cases of serious illness, accident, or other catastrophic occurrences beyond the student’s control and only if the student has completed at least 80% of all coursework. It is the responsibility of the students to request an incomplete grade from the instructor before the end of the term. Incompletes will be granted at the teacher’s discretion. All work must be completed by the deadline specified by the instructor; otherwise the grade will become an “F.”

Shared Agency and Client Information

In the classroom and/or assignments, students and professors will occasionally discuss clients and agencies. In these discussions, it is expected that information about clients and agencies should be disguised or eliminated if clients could be identified and that this information is to be held in confidence within the bounds of the NASW Code of Ethics.

Disability Accommodations

In compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 and Section 504/508 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Lewis-Clark State College provides reasonable accommodations to eligible students who experience barriers in the educational setting due to learning, emotional/mental, physical, visual, or hearing disabilities. Instructors will provide accommodations to students only after having received a Letter of Accommodation from the Student Counseling Center: Disability Services. If a student would like to request accommodations, he or she must contact the Student Counseling Center: Disability Services so that a Letter of Accommodation may be sent to the instructor. Students requesting accommodations must contact the Student Counseling Center: Disability Services at the beginning of each semester, 208-792-2211.

If course adaptations or accommodations are needed because of a disability, if you need to make the instructor aware of emergency medical information, or if you will need special arrangements in case of building evacuation, please contact the instructor by the 10th day of the semester.

Assignment Policies, Descriptions, and Grading Scale

Deadline for Submission of Assignments

Last minute emergencies often occur because students don’t keep up on day-to-day tasks/homework. This is not grounds for flexibility on my part. Please keep up on class activities and talk to me early and often if you are struggling. If we make different arrangements in advance, many policies can be negotiable, depending on your situation.

Assignments are due as scheduled by the instructor.

Generally, you have an entire week or more to complete assignments, so if you struggle with deadlines, be sure you are getting your work done early. However, some specific policies regarding specific types of assignments are outlined below.

Discussion Boards: The use of discussion boards will probably be limited. Further instructions and deadlines will be provided if we decide to use them.

Case Studies & Papers: I will accept case studies and papers as long as I haven't finished grading the assignment for your particular section of the class. Anything that comes in after I've posted grades will be considered late and receive 0 points.

Collaborations: You will have an opportunity later in the semester to collaborate on a project with nursing students. This will require that you respond quickly and behave professionally with whomever you are paired. Please reach out to me right away if you are having problems with any group or collaborative work. I will help you and your colleagues resolve whatever barriers are in the way.

Assignment Descriptions: Detailed assignment descriptions are available on Canvas.

Extensions: You are welcome to talk to me about issues that you know of in advance and, when possible, I will accommodate your needs. This may include asking you to do assignments in advance rather than turning them in late. In most cases, you are better served to just do the best you can and get an assignment in on time than to ask for an extension.

Rewriting Assignments

Rewrites are only allowed if it is part of the original assignment structure or if the instructor asks you to re-do an assignment you turned in on time but did not do correctly. This is entirely at the discretion of the instructor. Points awarded for rewrites and due dates are at the discretion of the instructor as well.

If you want assistance on writing assignments, please do not hesitate to meet with me or utilize other resources on campus such as the LCSC Online Writing Lab (<http://www.lcsc.edu/writing-center/distance-students/>) or other available online writing labs such as the Purdue OWL (https://owl.purdue.edu/owl/purdue_owl.html).

Assignment Changes

I will highlight any changes in assignments that occur ASAP, so be sure to check your Announcements on Canvas daily. Also, it is a good idea to review the official assignment description posted on Canvas (where you turn in the assignment). If you have any questions or notice any discrepancies, please be sure to let me know!

Discussion Boards are posted on Canvas but not required homework. I will notify the class in an Announcement if a Discussion Board is required for any given week. In the case of missed classes or a lack of participation in class we may use them.

Chapter readings assigned are from the class textbook (Human behavior in the social environment: a multidimensional perspective) unless otherwise noted.
