

SYLLABUS for Professional Development in Introduction to Psychology

DATE: Spring 2023

COURSE NUMBER AND TITLE: DS190 Professional Development in Introduction to Psychology

CREDIT HOURS: 1 (3 work hours per week)

TIME AND PLACE: There is no set class time. Student self-schedules 3 hours per week of work in this course.

INSTRUCTOR: Emily M. Carstens Namie, Ph.D.

OFFICE: Spalding 239, phone: 208-792-2338, e-mail: emcarstensnamie@lcsc.edu

OFFICE HOURS: Tues & Thurs 3:00pm – 4:00pm by appointment

Direct Study Student: Mohamed Kharrat

EMAIL: makharrat@lcmail.lcsc.edu

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

To further develop their knowledge and skill in the study and teaching of Introduction to Psychology, the direct study student will essentially fulfil the role of an Undergraduate Teaching Assistant for one sections of Introduction to Psychology (101-01). The student will be responsible for managing and grading the Achieve and iClicker assignments, grading exams, entering grades to Canvas. The student will also lead study sessions to help students with course work and writing assignments. The student will also provide a general support and guidance for students taking this class; helping with questions about the coursework and assignments and offering tips for studying and improving grades in the class. The direct study student will also hold office hours (virtual or in-person) on a “by appointment” basis. Other duties may be assigned as agreed upon by the student and professor to enrich the direct student’s skills and knowledge.