On this page, enter the number of program completers by the subject area in which they were prepared to teach, and by their academic majors. Note that an individual can be counted in more than one academic major and subject area. For example, if an individual is prepared to teach Elementary Education and Mathematics, that individual should be counted in both subject areas. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major or subject area, you may leave the cell blank. Please use the "Other" category sparingly, if there is no similar subject area or academic major listed. In these cases, you should use the text box to describe the subject area(s) and/or the academic major(s) counted in the "Other" category.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the program completers in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the program completers in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the program completers for the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the teachers prepared data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Teachers Prepared by Subject Area

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by subject area for academic year 2022-23.

For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Subject area" refers to the subject area(s) an individual has been prepared to teach. An individual can be counted in more than one subject area. If no individuals were prepared in a particular subject area, please leave that cell blank. (§205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\))

What are CIP Codes?

If your program has no teachers prepared, check the box above and leave the table below blank (or clear responses already entered).

What are CIP codes? The Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) provides a taxonomic scheme that supports the accurate tracking and reporting of fields of study and program completions activity. CIP was originally developed by the U.S. Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) in 1980, with revisions occurring in 1985, 1990, and 2000 (<https://nces.ed.gov/ipeds/cipcode/Default.aspx?y=55>).

Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by academic major for academic year 2022-23. For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Academic major" refers to the actual major(s) declared by the program completer. An individual can be counted in more than one academic major. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major, please leave that cell blank. \(\$205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\)\)

Please note that the list of majors includes several "Teacher Education" majors, as well as several noneducation majors. Please use care in entering your majors to ensure education-specific majors and non-education majors are counted correctly. For example, if an individual majored in Chemistry, that individual should be counted in the "Chemistry" academic major category rather than the "Teacher Education–Chemistry" category.

8. Describe your institution’s most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

Several strategies have been most effective in helping us meet these assurances. 1) Our full-time faculty participate in the supervision of interns so they are actively engaged in schools and are aware of current issues facing the school community. 2) Our candidates' extensive experiences in the field working with students and a year-long internship in our elementary program are key elements in preparing our candidates to be effective classroom teachers. Our Secondary candidates complete a semester long internship. In addition, between 50-100 hours of clinical experience in the schools are completed prior to the Clinical Internship experience in both the elementary and secondary programs.

Annual Goals: Mathematics

Each institution of higher education (IHE) that conducts a traditional teacher preparation program (including programs that offer any ongoing professional development programs) or alternative route teacher preparation program, and that enrolls students receiving Federal assistance under this Act, shall set annual quantifiable goals for increasing the number of prospective teachers trained in teacher shortage areas designated by the Secretary or by the state educational agency, including mathematics, science, special education, and instruction of limited English proficient students.

4. Description of strategies used to achieve goal, if applicable:

We have utilized targeted recruitment events both in Lewiston, ID and Coeur d’Alene, ID for our Secondary Education: Mathematics degree. We have also discussed this as a topic during our Advisory Council to provide information to local stakeholders and get feedback. We have sought math expertise for our Middle School Mathematics courses. We will have an additional faculty member on staff to support math education beginning next year.

5. Description of steps to improve performance in meeting goal or lessons learned in meeting goal, if applicable:

We learned that districts have specific needs in secondary education performance as well as candidate deficiencies. We have also implemented new coursework in lesson and unit plan design and implementation and are piloting that as a new course this year. Additionally we learned that our secondary candidates need to be more diversified in what they can teach due to the rural nature of the schools we support.

Annual Goals: Special Education

Each institution of higher education (IHE) that conducts a traditional teacher preparation program (including programs that offer any ongoing professional development programs) or alternative route teacher preparation program, and that enrolls students receiving Federal assistance under this Act, shall set annual quantifiable goals for increasing the number of prospective teachers trained in teacher shortage areas designated by the Secretary or by the state educational agency, including mathematics, science, special education, and instruction of limited English proficient students.

The pass rates table is populated from files provided by the testing company or state. The table provides information on the performance of the students in your teacher preparation program on each teacher credential assessment used by your state. In cases where a student has taken a given assessment more than once, the highest score on that test is used. In the case of a teacher preparation program with fewer than 10 scores reported on any single initial teacher credential assessment during an academic year, the program shall collect and publish information with respect to an average pass rate and scaled score on each state credential assessment taken over a three-year period. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

The Division Teacher Education holds the integration of technologies into teaching and learning as one of its main themes. The teacher preparation curricula address the strategic use of instructional technologies in several courses and in clinical experiences. Through ED-225 Technology for Teaching K-12, teacher candidates engage in the development of knowledge and skills in terms of the ISTE National Educational Technology Standards for Educators. During candidates' clinical internships, they also have an assignment as part of the PBA regarding the use of technology in the classroom. Additionally, one of the program outcomes for all candidates related to using technology in the classroom. All candidates must present evidence through a portfolio that they have met that program outcome. Teacher education faculty and staff are fully supported with current equipment, software tools, and the institution's e-Learning and IT support staff. The division faculty and staff utilize data systems such as and Ellucian Colleague, internal databases, and Canvas. These systems, in combination, provide the program with assessment data used to measure candidate performance related to program, state, and national standards. All LC State candidates take a 3-credit course, ED 318 Assessment for Learning. This course includes strategies to effectively collect, manage, and analyze data to inform and improve teaching and learning of students. Additionally, at LC State, all candidates seeking a degree in education take a three-credit course in SE 322: Inclusion Strategies, K-12. This course includes universal design strategies for teaching and assisting individuals with differences or disabilities in the public schools.

Provide the following information about your teacher preparation program.

Teacher Training

1. Provide a description of the activities that prepare general education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

All elementary general education candidates take two credits of Adaptive Teaching (SE 428 and SE 431). The purpose of SE 428 is to continue the emphasis on individualized planning, Response To Intervention, classroom differentiation, current brain research regarding learning, and adaptive instruction. Teacher education students will extend their current knowledge and acquire new skills in planning, implementing, and evaluating instruction for the purpose of meeting individual student needs. Performance goals and objectives will be demonstrated during actual internship experiences in the public schools. The purpose of SE 431 is to continue the emphasis on individualized planning, student motivation, alternative learning environments, and adaptive instruction. Teacher education students will apply knowledge and refine skills in planning, implementing, and evaluating instruction for the purpose of meeting individual student needs. Performance goals and objectives will be demonstrated during actual internship experiences in the public schools. All elementary and secondary education candidates seeking teacher certification take SE-322: Inclusion Strategies, K-12. This course includes designing strategies for teaching and assisting individuals with learning differences or disabilities in school settings. It also emphasizes standards of performance related to teaching and team responsibilities of professionals working to assist students with individual strengths or needs. There are two specific assignments in SE-322 that prepare all teachers to teach students with disabilities - the case study assignment and the adapted lesson plan assignment. The case study assignment allows students to utilize what they have learned about the special education process and different exceptionalities to create a case in which they explain appropriate diagnoses, accommodations, adaptations, type of plan, and services to be provided in a least restrictive environment. The adaptive lesson plan assignment allows students to demonstrate their understanding of how to create a lesson plan that utilizes universal design for learning and that has appropriate accommodations and/or adaptations for 4 fictional students with differing exceptionalities. In any general education course that uses our standard lesson plan template, a requirement of the template is to outline any adaptations or modifications that could be made. Through this, students gain knowledge and practice with adaptations and modifications of a wide range.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

At LC State, all candidates seeking a degree in education take a three-credit course called SE 322: Inclusion Strategies, K-12. This course includes universal design strategies for teaching and assisting individuals with differences or disabilities in the public schools. It emphasizes teaching approaches and team responsibilities of professionals working to assist students with differing needs. This knowledge-based course is designed to clarify learning characteristics, needs and problems of the exceptional learner in the public schools including students with limited English proficiencies. Perspectives on the Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) and categories of special education are discussed. This course emphasizes legal issues, individual education planning and collaborative team responsibilities of professionals working to meet individual differences. It introduces approaches to teaching and assisting students with individual needs or strengths.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

In RE 217: Children’s Literature, books written in both Spanish and English are shared with the candidates. Wordless books are introduced as a way to help engage ENL students and get them started with speaking and writing English. In RE 340 Foundational Literacy, the importance of not discriminating against students with accents when investigating phonemic principles is emphasized. Candidates study logographic, syllabic and alphabetic writing systems to recognize that not all language structures are the same. Candidates are introduced in ways that readers’ native languages, including dialects, influence the kinds of miscues they are likely to make and the influence culture has on reading comprehension. In RE 342 Intermediate Literacy, the needs of the second language learner are addressed as part of the instructional plan that candidates prepare as they work with elementary students in a one-on-one tutoring program in reading and writing. Candidates are expected to consider their elementary student's affective needs, cultural backgrounds, and learning styles as they prepare lessons appropriate to the elementary student's skills. It is an important part of the lesson planning that candidates build on their elementary reading partner's potentially different ways of learning and using language. The planned activities are designed to tap into the auditory, visual, and kinesthetic learning styles of their reading partner. The lecture class incorporates discussions of learning styles, assessing skills levels in a variety of ways in order to triangulate findings, and providing opportunities for the elementary student to demonstrate his/her understandings in alternate ways. In ED 445: Instructional Strategies and Classroom Management, secondary candidates are taught to identify "core" knowledge and skills necessary to pass a unit. After the unit assessment, a period (usually 2-3 days) is reserved for differentiation or extension activities. The candidates are asked to use this time to guide students needing additional instruction. This includes ENL students. In addition to remediation, students are given individual assignments as enrichment or extension. This concept is based on the idea that the most important variable in learning is not intelligence, but time (Bloom, Slavin). The challenge concept is suited for inclusive classrooms and is a practical way to address diverse needs and provide more direct student-teacher interaction. This concept is reinforced in ED 452: Intern Seminar. Interns are asked to share the composition of their classes and to discuss what can be done to meet the diversity of individual needs in those classes. In addition, a demographic report assignment is completed which asks students to research the demographics and culture of a school and its community. Students are asked to address how to best meet the needs of students in the community and adjust their teaching strategies accordingly. In ED 214 Principles of Education, candidates are introduced to issues related to the education of minorities, including the history of the types of issues faced by minorities and legal statutes. Candidates discover issues related to the struggles for equal education for minorities, specifically Asian Americans, Latinos, and Native Americans. The course also covers the legal issues that support ENL – Title III, history of ELL, legal support and services available such as family literacy, outreach, mentoring, instructional support as well as compensatory education and programs. In ED 345: Culturally Relevant Teaching, all candidates gain a deeper understanding of diverse issues in the classroom. We not only discuss issues of race and ethnicity and how it relates in the classroom, but how to develop a classroom environment that will provide all students the opportunity for them to be successful. One of the goals of this course is to raise cultural awareness and help candidates develop the skill base to work with diverse learners in the classroom. The introduction of culturally relevant instructional strategies help candidates develop ways to enhance learning for diverse learners. Additionally, SIOP and ENL awareness and integration projects are a part of course curriculum.

2. Does your program prepare special education teachers?

- ☒ Yes
☐ No

If yes, provide a description of the activities that prepare special education teachers to:

a. Teach students with disabilities effectively

In addition to the above course, all students seeking an endorsement in special education take additional coursework directly related to supporting students who are being served on an Individualized Education Plan. These classes include: SE 335: Special Education Field Experience, SE 332: Individualized Assessment, SE 333: Individualized Instruction, SE 334: Individualized Motivation, SE 477: Consulting with Parents and Professionals, SE 484: Special Education Internship. SE 333 provides an emphasis on instructional design and planning for teaching individuals with disabilities or learning needs including students with limited English proficiencies. The class emphasizes standards of instructional practice for motor, cognitive, academic and functional life skills. The class provides instruction on the development and design of student focused Individual Education Plans. SE 477 provides an emphasis on theory and practice of consulting with parents of students with disabilities. It emphasizes standards of performance related to communication, collaborative partnerships, professional and ethical practices.

b. Participate as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

SE 484 is a performance-based course (6 credits) where interns will apply knowledge and refine skills in planning, implementing and evaluating instruction for the purpose of meeting individual student needs. The importance of utilizing effective communication strategies with students, parents, paraprofessionals and other professionals is emphasized. Interns will apply knowledge of formal and informal assessments including proctoring, scoring, evaluating, and applying information gained as a result. Interns will demonstrate knowledge of federal and state law as it applies to the individual student with disabilities through a portfolio discussion of major provisions of IDEA as well as producing an Individualized Education Plan for a specific student, including all necessary items required by law.

c. Effectively teach students who are limited English proficient.

In RE 217 Children's Literature, books written in both Spanish and English are shared with the candidates. Wordless books are introduced as a way to help engage ENL students and get them started with speaking and writing English. In RE 340 Foundational Literacy, the importance of not discriminating against students with accents when investigating phonemic principles is emphasized. Candidates study logographic, syllabic and alphabetic writing systems to recognize that not all language structures are the same. Candidates are introduced in ways that readers' native languages, including dialects, influence the kinds of miscues they are likely to make and the influence culture has on reading comprehension. In RE

342 Intermediate Literacy, the needs of the second language learner are addressed as part of the instructional plan that candidates prepare as they work with elementary students in a one-on-one tutoring program in reading and writing. Candidates are expected to consider their elementary student's affective needs, cultural backgrounds, and learning styles as they prepare lessons appropriate to the elementary student's skills. It is an important part of the lesson planning that candidates build on their elementary reading partner's potentially different ways of learning and using language. The planned activities are designed to tap into the auditory, visual, and kinesthetic learning styles of their reading partner. The lecture class incorporates discussions of learning styles, assessing skills levels in a variety of ways in order to triangulate findings, and providing opportunities for the elementary student to demonstrate his/her understandings in alternate ways. In ED 214 Principles of Education, candidates are introduced to issues related to the education of minorities, including the history of the types of issues faced by minorities and legal statutes. Candidates discover issues related to the struggles for equal education for minorities, specifically Asian Americans, Latinos, and Native Americans. The course also covers the legal issues that support ENL – Title III, history of ELL, legal support and services available such as family literacy, outreach, mentoring, instructional support as well as compensatory education and programs. Contextual Information

Please use this space to provide any additional information that describes your teacher preparation program(s). You may also attach information to this report card (see below). The U.S. Department of Education is especially interested in any evaluation plans or interim or final reports that may be available.

Overall program goal: “To prepare caring professionals who teach for understanding in communities of learning.” Background Information 1-a. What are your institution’s requirements for admission to teacher education? Coursework Candidates must have completed or be in the final semester of completing all required core course work with grades of “C-“ or better in each course, and an overall GPA of 3.0. No grade lower than a “B-“ will be accepted in any professional education course. Scholarship Candidates must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 or higher on a 4.0 scale. In addition, for secondary teacher education candidates, a minimum grade point average of 3.0 in their major teaching field is required. Standardized Test Candidates must have qualifying scores on the SAT, ACT, or PRAXIS II Content Exams. Professional Experience Elementary candidates must have experience working with children. Teacher Education candidates, both elementary and secondary, are asked to compose a reflective essay about their experience. Interview and Essay Each candidate is interviewed by a panel of professionals; the panel includes school administrators and current or retired teaching professionals from the community. As part of the interview, candidates write an extemporaneous essay. The object of the interview/essay process is to detect any communication difficulties, to determine the candidate’s capacity for reflective thinking, and to assess the candidate’s motivation to complete the teacher education program and to enter the teaching profession. Detractors Candidates can lose points for patterns of course incompletes or withdrawals on transcripts; para-competencies; or moral turpitude. 1-b. What is your process for admission to teacher education? Students initiate the application process by accessing a web application at www.lcsc.edu/education/teacher-education/program-application, providing the information requested, and turning in a signed statement of release. The Division of Teacher Education office staff checks that the applications are complete; verifies the data in applications; and assigns numerical weights for scholarship. The Coordinators of the Elementary and Secondary Programs then contact applicants to schedule interviews and essays. The interview panel of professionals provides numerical weights for the essay and the interview, then makes a recommendation for admission. After the interview, the education faculty review application files for professional experience, incompletes, withdrawals, para-competencies, and moral turpitude. The committees use a list of all applicants and the numerical ranking to make final admission decisions. Applicants are notified in writing of results. 2-a. What are your institution requirements for continuation in teacher education? In order to be admitted to the internship, candidates must: be fully admitted to the Teacher Education Program; have successfully completed all professional foundations coursework with grades of “B-“ or higher in all Teacher Education Division Phase II courses (ED, RE, SE); have positive evaluations from all field-based experiences; have qualifying scores on the Praxis II exams for all teaching areas. 2-b. What are your requirements for exiting (completing) a teacher education program? Currently, in order to be recommended for teacher certification, candidates must: meet all State standards and requirements for licensure in their area successfully complete the internship submit a performance portfolio with evidence of competence in the applicable Idaho Standards for Initial Certification of Professional School Personnel pass an exit interview. Portfolio Requirements: The portfolio is a form of performance assessment that requires teacher candidates to demonstrate they have the knowledge, skills, and dispositions needed to be effective classroom teachers. Development of the portfolio is a year-long endeavor. In this portfolio all teacher candidates collect and display evidence that they are able to meet the thirteen (13) Idaho Core Teaching Standards. The 13 standards are titled: Learner Development Learning Differences Learning Environments Content Knowledge Application of Content Assessment Planning for Instruction Instructional Strategies Professional Learning & Ethical Practice Leadership and Collaboration American Indian Tribes in Idaho Code of Ethics for Idaho Professional Educators Digital Technology and Online Learning The portfolio is assessed by two reviewers: the candidate’s faculty mentor and one other education faculty member. If there is disagreement concerning the quality of the portfolio, a third reviewer is consulted. Revisions are made until two of the reviewers find the portfolio acceptable. Exit Interview Process: A formal exit interview is required of all interns at the completion of their program. Teams consisting of an LC State Division of Teacher Education faculty member, the intern’s faculty supervisor, and an on-site teacher educator will participate in these exit interviews. The college faculty mentor/supervisor is the chair of the exit interview team. Approximately four weeks before the end of the internship experience, if both the college supervisor and on-site teacher educator agree that the intern is demonstrating the competencies expected for certification, the exit interview process proceeds in the following manner: The intern submits a completed portfolio to the college mentor/supervisor. When the portfolio has been accepted according to the procedures outlined previously, the Director of the Field Experience selects the additional faculty member for the interview team. Exit interview questions relate to the internship experience, the content of the portfolio, general questions about theorists and methods, and typical job interview questions. The interview team may vote to pass or fail the intern, or they may choose to extend the internship and reschedule the interview. The team’s decision to fail the intern may be appealed first to the Division chair and second to the entire Division at a regularly scheduled meeting. 3. What are the general education requirements for (all) teacher education students? The General Education Core curriculum provides teacher candidates with opportunities to gain knowledge and skills through study of the arts, communication, history, literature, mathematics, sciences, and the social sciences. The internship provides the teacher candidate with mentored experiences in all areas of teacher performance. During the internship, candidates are expected to fulfill additional responsibilities both on campus and at their assigned school site. Interns complete course assignments as well as duties assigned at their school. They perform professionally according to public school policies and procedures. Failure to successfully progress through the internship results in an extended internship, inability to continue with Internship, or withdrawal from the Teacher Education Program. 9. What are additional planned changes in your teacher education program? Starting in the Fall of 2023, we are approved to offer a Bachelor's degree in Special Education. This new degree option will provide candidates with endorsements in both Special Education K-12 and Literacy K-12. Candidates will be trained in all content areas as well as an emphasis in Special Education and Literacy. An additional course, SW-405 Trauma and Resilience, has been added to the degree program. 10. Are there additional features about your teacher education program you would like to share? We have continued offering and attracting students to our Online Elementary Education program. This provides the opportunity for people who live at a distance to complete a teacher preparation program in a local, convenient setting. The courses that we require our on site students to complete are online for our online students to take, as well. They are given the choice of minor endorsements in Special Education or Reading (Literacy). They will complete the same internship requirements, but at a school site that is local to them. Our first teachers prepared with this program have completed the program in 2022.
